Sequoit watershed is special

ALEC JUNG

Staff Reporter

The findings of a Sequoit Creek water study describe the quality of eight area lakes and provide a basis for work to improve these lakes.

The Lake County Health Department was contracted by the state, which obtained a federal grant for a non-point water source pollution project for Sequoit Creek and the lakes in its watershed. Those lakes include Antioch Lake, Cedar Lake, Deep Lake, East and West Loon Lake, Little Silver Lake, McGreal Lake and Sun Lake.

The grant allowed the department to study how the watershed impacts each lake.

"We studied non-point runoff on Sequoit Creek and the lakes around it so the villages around it could adopt erosion control measures to improve the watershed," said Mary Colwell, wildlife biologist for the health department.

Colwell noted Deep, Cedar and Loon lakes all have rare plant and wildlife living in them.

"They all have state endangered plants and fish," Colwell said.

She mentioned all the lakes are natural, glacial lakes. Each has its own unique situation.

"Each of the lakes are special but some have their problems," Colwell said.

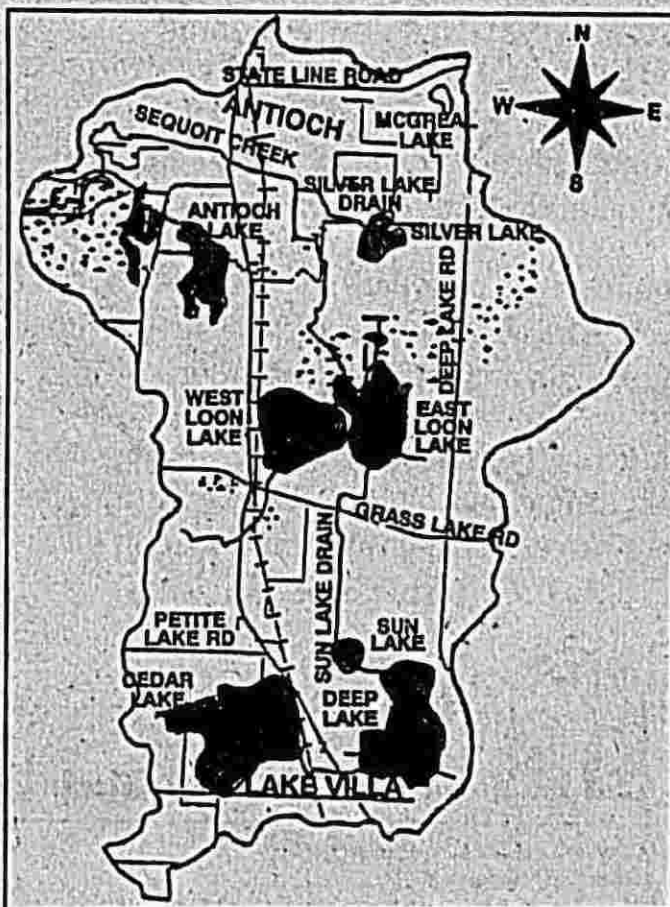

Among them is Antioch Lake; with its small depth and large number of residences it has difficulty with high weed and algae counts.

"The homeowners of Antioch Lake face difficult choices when considering the water quality of their lake. The massive plant growth results in the low concentration of nutrients in the water and excellent clarity, but the plant beds are extremely dense and hinder recreation," according to the conclusion of the Antioch Lake portion.

The conclusion also mentioned that if the beds are treated, the oxygen level drops, causing algae to bloom and clarity to decrease.

Cedar Lake, one of the five clearest in state monitoring, also was praised in the study.

"It has exceptional water quality and contains 59 aquatic macrophyte species, including four Illinois endangered plants. The fishery is also diverse, and supports five Illinois state threatened fish species. Ecologically, Cedar Lake is considered one of the most important lakes in Illinois," the See STUDY page A10

To be heard

Sen. Geo-Karis calls meeting on boat safety

ALEC JUNG

Staff Report

The July deaths on the Chain O' Lakes have underscored the need for boat safety to the degree state senate officials will hold a hearing on the subject.

Prompted by several boating accidents and complaints in Lake County, Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis requested a special Senate committee hearing on the safe operation of watercraft in Illinois and on the proposals contained in Senate Bill 1331 concerning boat safety. The purpose of the hearing is to get feedback from residents, state and local officials and industry leaders. It will be held Tuesday, Sept. 24, 10 a.m., at Antioch Village Hall, 874 Main St.

"I don't drink and drive. People have to realize boats are just as dangerous as automobiles."

— Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis

"I requested this hearing in response to the increasing number of boating accidents in my district," Geo-Karis said. "Boating and drinking are becoming more and more common in this area. It had led to deaths that could have been prevented with tougher legislation."

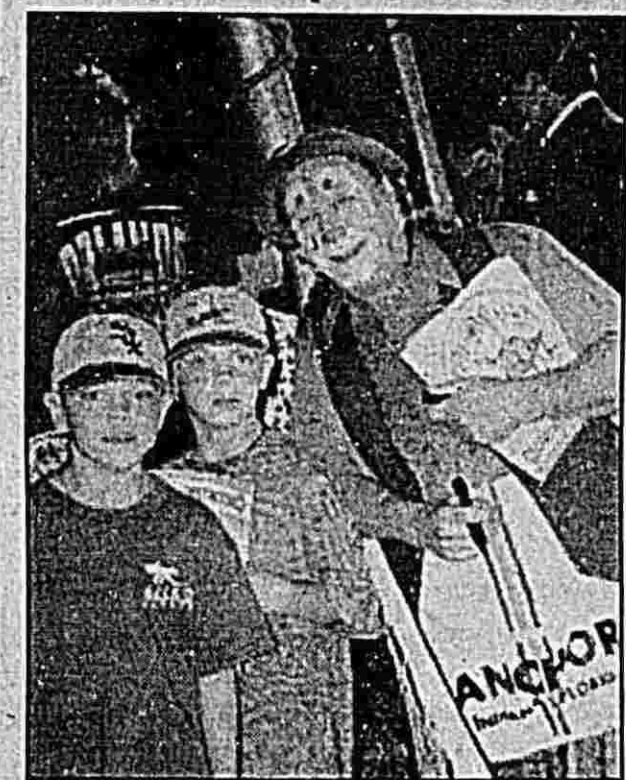

Geo-Karis sponsored bill 1331 last year. The bill included penalties for operating a boat under the influence. She mentioned she intends to use testimony at the hearing to strengthen her bill before she reintroduces it.

"I want to get as much input from the public as possible," Geo-Karis said.

She noted Undersheriff Willie Smith, and Fox Lake County Board Member Ed Fojtik were responsible for helping craft the legislation.

"Under current law, you can lose your license for driving drunk, but can still drive a boat. We need to look at Illinois law and figure out the best way to increase safety on our lakes," Geo-Karis said.

She mentioned an attitude adjustment is necessary for boaters who feel it is OK to See SAFETY page A10

take a hero

prostate cancer.

—General Norman Schwarzkopf
Former Commander in Chief, US Army
Author of best selling autobiography, It Doesn't Take a Hero.
Spokesman, National Prostate Cancer Awareness Week.
Survivor of Prostate Cancer.

It takes a great battle plan.

The prostate cancer battle plan always includes early detection.

In recognition of Prostate Cancer Awareness Week, free prostate cancer tests will be offered at Saint Therese on Wednesday, September 18, from 6 to 9 p.m.

An estimated 200,000 American men will get prostate cancer this year and the disease will claim about 38,000 lives. However, thanks in part to early detection through tests, nearly 60 percent of diagnosed cases last year were localized and potentially curable.

If you're a man over the age of 50, you should be tested annually for prostate cancer. African-American men, or those with a family history of the disease should begin annual testing at the age of 40.

Conducting the exams will be Drs. Raza Khan, Robert Saffrin, Bruce Brown, Harsh Kumar and Thomas Porter, who are specialists in urology. No appointment is necessary. For more information please call Saint Therese Community Outreach at 360-2181 or 360-2473.

Tragic accident spurs lawsuit

ELIZABETH EAKEN

Staff Reporter

Maureen Walker, 47, of Grayslake, the mother of two — Meredith Walker, 14, and Kelly Walker, 19, lost her life July 26 at Routes 83 and 137 in a collision with a dump truck.

Now the two sisters have filed a wrongful death lawsuit against Sunset Cartage, Inc. the owner of the dump truck which struck their mother's 1993 Ford Thunderbird, and Patrick M. Johansen of Huntley, the driver of the truck.

They are seeking judgments against the defendants on three counts — wrongful death, survival action and medical and funeral expenses. They are seeking an amount over $150,000.

Attorney Patrick Salvi, representing Walker's daughters and her estate, issued a statement.

"It is an absolute tragedy that such a wonderful woman with so much to live for would be killed under these circumstances. This defendant was flat out negligent and careless in the operation of his truck. There is no excuse for his conduct. We will see to it that her daughters are fully and completely compensated for the loss of their lovely mother," he wrote.

According to the accident report and police accounts of the accident, the truck apparently ran a red light at the intersection of Routes 83 and 137 hitting Walker's car on the drivers side.

Grayslake Police Sergeant Matt McCutcheon, following the accident, stated the truck, "blew the light, struck Walker's vehicle, then flipped on its side and lost a load of sand."

Johansen was headed south-east on Route 83 near Route 137 when he struck Walker who was heading north on Route 83/Ivanhoe Road. Walker was airlifted to Lutheran General Hospital where she was pronounced dead.

Johansen of Huntley, Ill., was ticketed for disobeying a traffic control device. No court date has been set.

Walker taught first grade at Spaulding School in Gurnee and in the past taught second grade. During her teaching career she also taught at Avon School in unincorporated Lake Villa.

Walker lived in the area for many years, moving to Mundelein as a sophomore in high school from Texas.

Who really misses summer anyway — People News

Isn't Fall a lovely time of year? Granted it is still only the beginning of September but that is close enough to Fall as far as I'm concerned. Isn't it wonderful to sit on your front porch or deck or in your screen porch and actually hear the birds and the wind and the bugs in the grass. Isn't it extraordinary that a kind of peace has settled over our neighborhoods and subdivisions.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

395-6364

No bouncing balls or zooming skate boards, no headphones emitting loud unintelligent music or menacing bicycles clogging up our streets and sidewalks. Could it possibly be that summer has at last come to a close and school is finally, finally back in session! Are the majority of those annoying, underfoot, "I'm bored" youngsters finally in the confines of those ominous brick buildings that suck up one-third of our tax dollars?

Oh what a glorious days lie ahead. Who cares that wind, rain or snow may hold us hostage in our homes for the next nine months. What difference does it make that we only see day light for about five hours a day.

Is it such a big deal that our skin won't be warmed by the sun for quite some time. What we sacrifice in personal comfort we gain a million times over 'n sanity rejuvenation.

Oh sure there is that dreaded school morning rush to get everybody where they are suppose to be on time and with all the proper books, bags, homework, lunches and science projects.

And then the never ending chauffeuring duties, snack time, homework time, dinner time, bath time and bed time encountered after school hours. But we still have those few hours sandwiched in between "go to school" and "get home from school," those couple of hours nestled in the middle of the day that are at our disposal. Those are our hours, our hours to do whatever we can get away with.

Happy Happy

Well, it's a week late but not to worry, the monthly birthday list has not been forgotten. I wouldn't dare let down all those out there who celebrate their big day this month.

I know how many people rely on my information to remember loved one's special events so as to stay out of the dog house. Speaking of which, any good guesses on who forgets a certain wedding anniversary being celebrated this month? My birthday list is kind of short this month so if anyone wants to send a fried, relative, significant other or an acquaintance a cheerful birthday message just give me a call.

As for all you September celebrants I hope the presents are plentiful and really, really big! Happy, Happy: Amy Dembinski, Carrie Dunfrund, Laura Edelman, Neil Hansen, Jenny Harris, Kathy Harris, Blake Harrison, Jessica Lehmann, Lauren Lichter, Bradley Lindstrom, Wayne Olsen Sr., Marian Rohde, Liz Schmehl, Phil Smerz, Nicholas Staten, Kaite Turner. ## Absentee voting for disabled voters

"Any registered voter who is physically unable to vote at a polling place may vote by absentee ballot starting Sept. 26," Lake County Clerk Willard Helander announced. The County Clerk's office will mail absentee ballots through Oct. 1.

Disabled voters may enroll in the Disabled Voter Program which is intended to simplify voting for individuals who, due to physical disability of a relatively permanent nature, cannot go to their polling place. Once the voter is enrolled in the program, the voter will automatically received an Application for Absentee Ballot for all elections during a five-year period.

"Unfortunately, the law does not permit us to offer this service for a temporary disability. However, voters with temporary disabilities can still receive applications for Absentee Ballots by requesting them through our office before each election," Helander said.

For more information about registration, procedures for voting by absentee ballot and the availability of assistance in marking the ballot, please contact the Absentee Voting Department at 360-5912.

Festival of Arts set for Adler Center

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Regional Editor

More than 60 artists will converge at the David Adler Cultural Center in Libertyville as they display and demonstrate their artistic wonders during the "Festival of the Arts."

The annual event will be held this weekend Sept. 14th and 15th. Hours on Saturday will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

"I call it a festival of fun," said Karen Haub, visual arts director at the center. "We've had more than 1,000 people come to it in the past."

From stained-glass window making to jewelry making and from metal smithing to furniture art there will be a variety of artistic media presented including the more traditional forms like painting and ceramics.

Artists will spread themselves out in mini exhibits outdoors on the immediate grounds as well as throughout Adler Park.

"It's like a large outdoor art fair," Haub said.

A children's courtyard will also be displayed where there will be action painting, drawing, clay pottery and variety of other artistic activities for children.

"The kids will be busy getting their artistic juices flowing while their parents can check out the exhibits," Haub said.

Some of the more unusual art forms to be presented include Shiatsu Bodyworks. Shiatsu is an ancient art that accesses the energy network system of the body.

"It's like a massage. They call it a body art form," Haub said. People can buy a Shiatsu tune-up for $1 a minute.

Also from the Orient there will be Sumi-E demonstrations.

Sumi-E is an ancient Japanese brush art.

"The woman doing is Polish weirdly enough," Haub quipped. Lidia Rozmus will, in fact, offer Sumi-E classes at the Adler Center this fall.

The Festival of Arts has been an ongoing tradition at the Adler Center since the 1950s. This year's event is sponsored by McDonald's of Libertyville, Mundelein and Vernon Hills.

There will also be tours of the Adler Cultural Center. Inside, students and faculty will showcase their work as well during the festival.

DIABETIC CIRCULATION

One cannot understate the importance of proper foot care for diabetics. Serious problems may develop, especially if circulation is impaired. For one thing, tissue in the foot is less able to fight infection if circulation is poor.

Diabetics must be careful to avoid anything that further restricts circulation, such as smoking, wearing tight shoes or elastic-top socks, exposure to cold, and even sitting with legs crossed.

Diabetics, especially, should learn more about foot care. It's wise to schedule regular examinations, and a podiatrist should be consulted without delay if the feet develop numbness, tingling, or unrelieved swelling or become cold or blue.

Donors sought to save many lives

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

Antioch organizations are uniting in an effort to save a girl's life and save other people in similar circumstances.

Antioch Rotary Club, Lions Club, Junior Woman's Club, Community Volunteers and the National Marrow Donor Program are hosting a Marrow Donor Volunteer Screening Saturday, Sept. 28, at St. Peter's Social Center.

"We already have 87 people signed up," said Matt Tabar, of Antioch Rotary Club. "We have to get a lot more."

"It is our hope that we get 200 people," said Ted Axton of the Rotary.

By organizing the drive, Antioch residents aim to add more volunteer donors to the National Marrow Donor Program's Registry. Currently, there are 2 million donors listed, but there are more than 2,000 searches going on at one time.

Organizers are also hoping to find a match for Antioch resident Rachel Lugo who is afflicted with leukemia.

The chances of finding a match are one in 20,000. To make it an even chance of finding someone who matches, you would need 40 million donors in the national registry," Axton said.

Donors increase the odds of finding a successful bone marrow transplant for someone suffering from leukemia or other fatal blood diseases.

For many people suffering from fatal blood diseases, a bone marrow transplant from a matched marrow donor is the only hope.

For more information call 395-1309.

Rotarians reminded to get back to school

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

Antioch Rotarians were encouraged to get involved with their schools and remember that learning is a lifelong process.

Guest speaker Sally Foster of the United Way described the Lake County Learns Program geared to promote cooperation and partnerships in education. Lake County Learns was created by Ed Gonwa, Lake County regional superintendent, as a bridge between educators and the private sector.

"We're looking for community support of education," Foster said.

Foster added the program provides employers with lots of literature aimed at assisting parents with their children.

An example is the four A's. They are: Be around — your children need your time, be aware — know what and how your children are doing and who they're are doing it with, be assertive — ask questions of your children, teachers and administrators and be accepting — none of us do it right all of time.

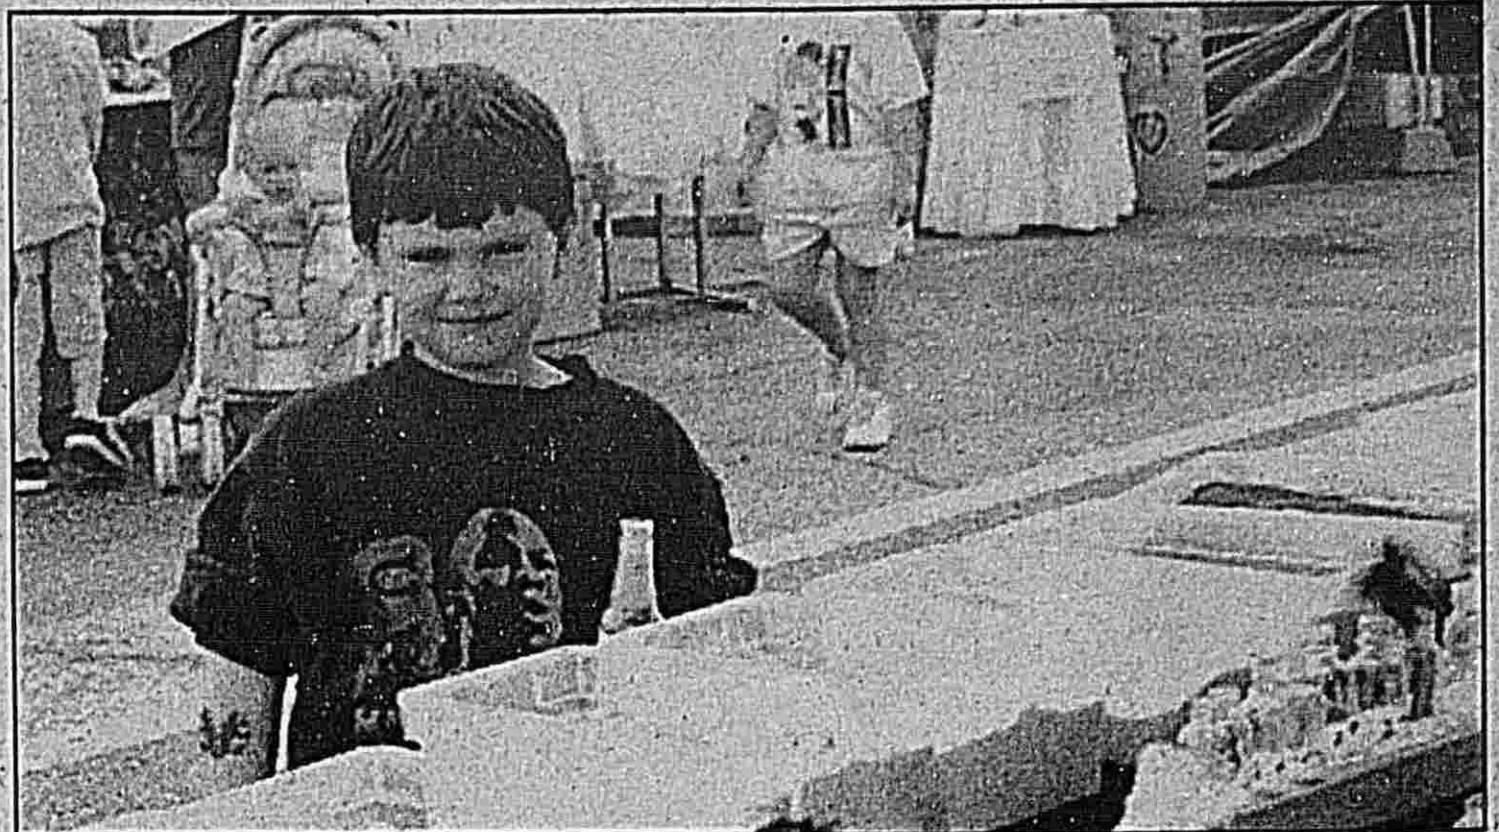

"It's a community issue. These kids are going to be our future leaders," Foster stressed.

She encouraged members to take off work early that day or have employees do the same.

The organization is sponsoring the "Learning Connection" on Nov. 17-23 which coincides with "National Education Week."

Bike-A-Thon to benefit Cancer Society

The Northwest Lake Area Bike-A-Thon is a recreational ride held to raise monies for the Lake County Unit of the American Cancer Society. The event was started three years ago to honor Bill Brook, a longtime resident of Antioch and community leader who passed away in 1992 from cancer.

The event will be held Sunday, Sept. 29. There are routes of five and 10 miles that begin and end at Centennial Park in Antioch. Registration begins at 9 a.m.

To ensure a successful event, two things are needed: riders and sponsorship.

Riders can come on their own or form a team of three or more with co-workers, family and friends. Riders are requested to collect flat pledges and to strive for a minimum pledge goal of $50. The following prizes will be awarded: Raise $50 and receive an official bike-athon t-shirt; $100, t-shirt and sunglasses; $200, t-shirt, sunglasses and hat; $500, t-shirt, sunglasses, hat and a $25 gift certificate to Gurnee Mills Mall.

Sponsor the event with a cash donation and receive publicity for yourself or your organization.

All proceeds from the Northwest Lake Area Bike-A-Thon go directly to the American Cancer Society to support cancer control through research, education programs, advocacy and service to cancer patients.

Pioneers Days come to Lake Villa

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

Lake Villa District Library is planning a comprehensive historical experience for the whole family to enjoy.

Go back to the rugged days of the late 1800s when people went west in "Pioneer Days On The Prairie," Saturday, Sept. 21, from 10 a.m.-9 p.m. The day is filled with music, performers, games, activities and much more.

Many storytellers will be on hand to discuss various aspects of our heritage. Learn sign language from Mato Luta Win Potanka. This Oglala Sioux lecturer from South Dakota will paint face, teach children how to make Indian shields, tell stories and show Indian toys and games.

Pioneer storyteller Sam Genitili will tell tales of American girls. Hear stories and song of this bygone era. Col. Bob Blanchard recreated the role of Daniel Boone he tells of his adventures and accomplishments. Betsy Gurlacz will present a slide presentation featuring the life and times of Laura Ingalls Wilder, which was showcased on TV as "Little House on the Prairie."

Musical entertainment will abound. Countryside Harmony will perform from 1-2 p.m. on the library prairie. Other performers include Lee Murdock, Mark Dvorak and Jim Kanas.

Murdock will sing folk songs emanating from the Great Lakes Region. Mark Dvorak offers a mix of traditional and contemporary folk songs accompanying himself on a five-string banjo, guitar and other simple instruments. Kanas passes out instruments to the audience to help him perform his special brand of folk music.

Other activities include a display featuring the life of a pioneer woman, a farm wife, a pioneer teacher, and hear tales of Davy Crockett.

Also visit booths from area businesses and organizations. Games will be provided by New Generations Child Care, Christian Life Fellowship, Midway Village, Girl Scouts, a Prairie Museum from the Round Lake Area Park District, Antique Show & Tell, from Anamosa

Antiques, and crafts from Lake Villa District Youth Advisory Board.

The library is located at the intersection of Deep Lake Road and Rte. 132. For more information call Cynthia Hall at 356-7711.

Volunteers needed for Great Lakes Beach Sweep

It's time again for the annual Great Lakes Beach Sweep, a volunteer effort to clean up Lake Michigan waterfronts.

Volunteers are needed at Illinois State Beach in Zion from 9 a.m. to noon, Saturday, Sept. 21. The local effort is cosponsored by the Ameritech Pioneers, Illinois chapter, along with the Center for Marine Conservation.

Last year, over 30 miles of beach and close to 7,000 pounds of debris were cleaned in Illinois alone. The biggest offender was cigarette butts, followed by plastic pieces and glass pieces. Debris on the beaches can be used as a local indicator of the health of the lake community.

It's more than just a litter problem. Many aquatic animals confuse plastic for food. Ingested plastics can cause internal injury, internal blockage and starvation.

The designated area for the beach sweep will be a 3 to 6 1/2 mile stretch of the Illinois Beach State Park shoreline. Come alone or with friends or family. Bring work gloves and a picnic lunch.

For more information call Beach Captain Marty Gregory, 623-5190.

Study

report said.

Both Cedar and Deep lakes have concentrations of what is called the "weevil," an insect which kills the invasive plant species European Millfoil.

ISun Lake is one of the few lakes in the county with no trace of European Millfoil.

"Sun Lake has no access, so boats and trailers don't bring fragments into the lake," Colwell said.

The shallowness of McGreal Lake also impacts its water clarity.

"The wind and wave action kicks up the sediments," Colwell said.

Loon lakes were high in water quality. The report noted the weed harvesting program helps keep the oxygen level up by removing unwanted plant species.

Little Silver Lake was mentioned as having "excellent water quality." The report recommended removing the cut weeds so they don't grow again.

The Northern Illinois Planning Commission also studied soils to get a better understanding of how the creek is affected.

Circus a smash hit for Jaycees

ALEC JUNG

Northwest Lake Countians were able to enjoy a circus right in their backyard.

The Kelly Miller Brothers Circus came Sept. 10 to Oakland School thanks to the sponsorship of the Antioch Jaycees. The two shows drew an estimated 1,500 people based on ticket sales, according to Joel Johnson, community development director for the Jaycees.

"They put on a good show," Johnson said. "Normally, to see a circus you would have to drive to Chicago or Milwaukee pay for gas, pay for parking and pay a higher price. Here they can have the same experience and be only five minutes away."

The Kelly Miller Brothers Circus features a collection of more than a dozen act, including wild cats, their trainers, aerial and acrobatic performers, clowns, elephants and exotic petting zoo.

Schools also bused children to see the animals before the circus, according to Johnson.

Johnson added the circus went well without glitches.

"It was perfect weather. It was just wonderful," Johnson said.

The circus drew so well, it actually became a fundraiser for the organization after expenses were paid.

"All of the money will go back into the Antioch community," Johnson said.

He said this was by far the most attended circus the Jaycees have ever sponsored that he can remember.

Johnson thanked Antioch Elementary District for permitting the circus on the school property.

Johnson noted the circus will likely be back in two years. The circus only comes by every two years.

ACHS golfers keep the pace

The second week of the regular season proved successful as the Antioch High lady golfers blasted Wheeling by 69 shots.

Antioch's 201-270 margin gives the team a best-ever 3-1 start.

"This is the best start ever for girls golf at Antioch High. With the traditional conference powers and tough tournament phase of the season ahead, we need to continue to improve all phases of our game with each meet. It is very encouraging to begin the season on a positive note," ACHS coach Steve Wapon said.

Antioch is at the Barrington tourney Sept. 14. The host Barrington team is state ranked and figures to be the favorite.

"We hope to shoot what we are capable of and maybe improve from there. It will be a good measuring stick for us. Each team strives for consistency, and we have seen some signs of that," Wapon said.

Angie Pederson (48) was medalist for the Sequoits, Sarah Rockow had a 49, Lisa Murphy a 50 for a top three finish. Abby Clark had a 54, Marissa Blasko a 56 and DeAnne Dagaard a 64.

The junior varsity team topped Wheeling 238-279. Co-medalists for the young Sequoits were: Kristen Hungarland (56) and Kristy Sehmer. Sarah Groh had a 57 and Brittany Cable a 69.

The JV team lost to Barrington 195-227.

"We played one of the top programs in Illinois and we shot well. I feel that we will only get better against outstanding teams," JV coach Anita Reiche said.

Co-medalists for Antioch were: Kacy Sehmer (56) and Hungarland (56) and with the balance of scoring from Groh (56), Veronica Pazanin (59), Cable (62), Jackie Anderson (67) and Dana Soandot (67) for a 3-1 JV record.

The varsity is at Lake Forest for a North Suburban Conference clash Sept. 17.

Carmel hopes game drama behind them

Carmel High is probably collectively hoping that the next game is decided in the first three and one-half quarters.

The Corsairs have had two dramatic finishes to start the 1996 season. And lost them both - the second coming in a 13-7 loss in Burbank against St. Laurence.

"I am not a big fan of character builders. It was another hard loss," Carmel coach Mike Fitzgibbons said.

Carmel hosts Gordon Tech Sept. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the home opener.

St. Laurence scored first, on a 50-yard run by Tony Coco in the third quarter.

Brandon Johnson's sack of St. Laurence QB Mike Baetzel set up the Carmel score. Johnson was executing the blitz, something he was not called on to do in dramatic loss No. 1, 27-23 at Fenwick.

"He blitzed very well. He is one of the good players we have that made many plays,"

Fitzgibbons said.

That led to Carmel's score, a 9-yard pass from Kevin Dix. That tied the game with 3:05 left in the third period.

But in the end, it was Baetzel who would have the last laugh. Taking advantage of one too many good field positions, the Vikings moved the ball 43 yards. Baetzel escaped for the game winning score with 1:16 left. As Fenwick did a week ago, St. Laurence withstood a last-gasp Carmel effort.

"We gave them the ball after a fumble, interception and a punt. We did not get over the 50 in the fourth quarter. The defense did a great job," Fitzgibbons said.

Carmel, 0-2 continues Metropolitan Catholic Conference play when it hosts Gordon Tech at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 13. "Gordon Tech is a pretty good team who will run the ball at us. The offense needs to be more consistent. The offense played well the first week, the defense the second week," Fitzgibbons said.

The Corsairs hope to do better in the passing game, where they were held for 4-of-12 for 25 yards and 3 interceptions.

ACHS booters off to fast start

Fresh off one tourney title, the Antioch High's boys soccer team heads west for another.

The Sequoits clash at the Rockford Boylan tourney Sept. 14 after winning the Maine East tourney. Antioch beat Cary-Grove 2-0 and Maine East 5-0. They lost to Oak Park 2-1 but won the tiebreak. A third shutout came in a 1-0 season opening win over Wheeling.

Kevin Chudd with one goal and 5 assists, Mark Miller with 4 goals and Steve Hove's goal-keeping have keyed the Antioch fast start.

Antioch's home opener is Sept. 17 against Rockford Harlem.

Gofron shows former coach she learned well - for ACHS

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

Carrie Gofron stood on the service line, with her former grade school coach Sue Thompson not too far away.

"She was my eighth grade coach and taught me the floating serve," Gofron, a senior at Antioch, said.

Gofron and Thompson, once working for the same cause at the Lake Villa Intermediate volleyball team, were on opposite sides as Antioch downed Grant High 15-8, 15-8.

Gofron was a perfect 17-of-17 with 3 aces as Antioch notched the non-conference win. "We jelled today. We have been helping each other out," she said.

Gofron likes the team's start, particularly as Aja Brown is back. She attended Carmel High last year.

"That helps a lot," Gofron said.

Gofron is best-of-friends with another Lake Villa resident, Grant's Stacie Morley.

Gofron was a force at the net with 6-of-7 with 5 kills. Jenny Cardis was 8-of-9 with 5 kills.

"We played in spurts. We missed a lot of serves and that slows down our offense," Antioch coach Gwen Varney said.

"Brown is a good passer, all-around athlete. She did not play last year, so she was a little rusty," she said.

New Grant mentor Sue Thompson said she saw bright spots as the team evened its record at 1-1.

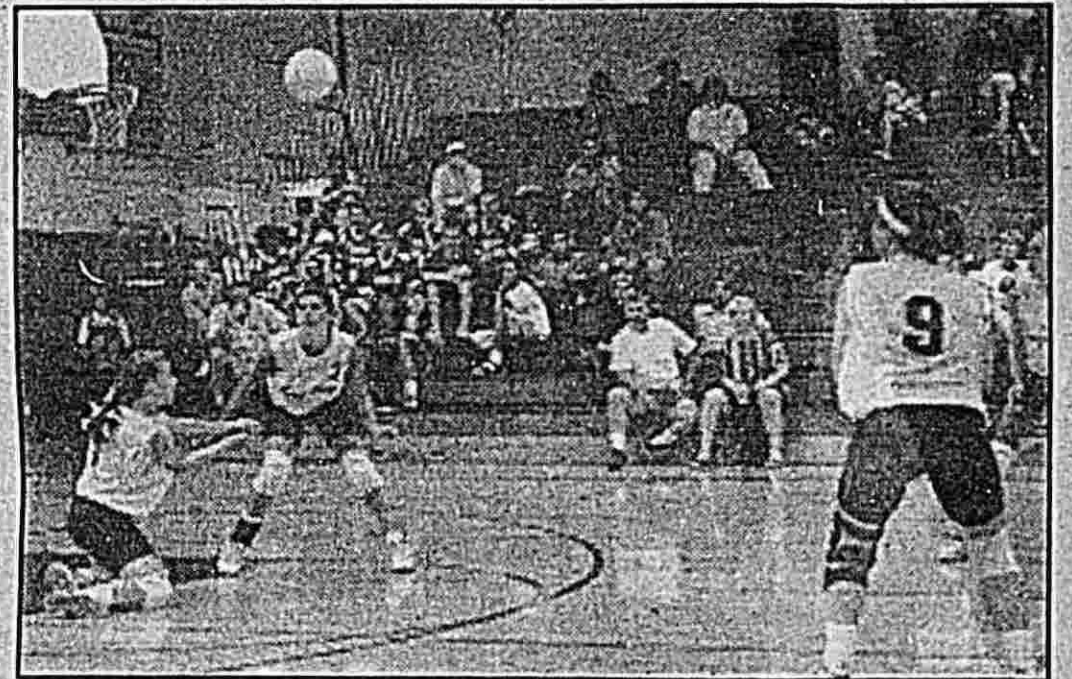

"We are improving each week. Our blocking is coming along," she said.

Antioch led 5-1 early in game one as Brown served an ace. Grant regrouped and outscored Antioch after an 8-3 ACHS lead.

Gofron led the Sequoits to a 12-6 margin, but Grant continued to get shutouts. A kill by 5-foot, 9 inch Brown allowed her to finish the game.

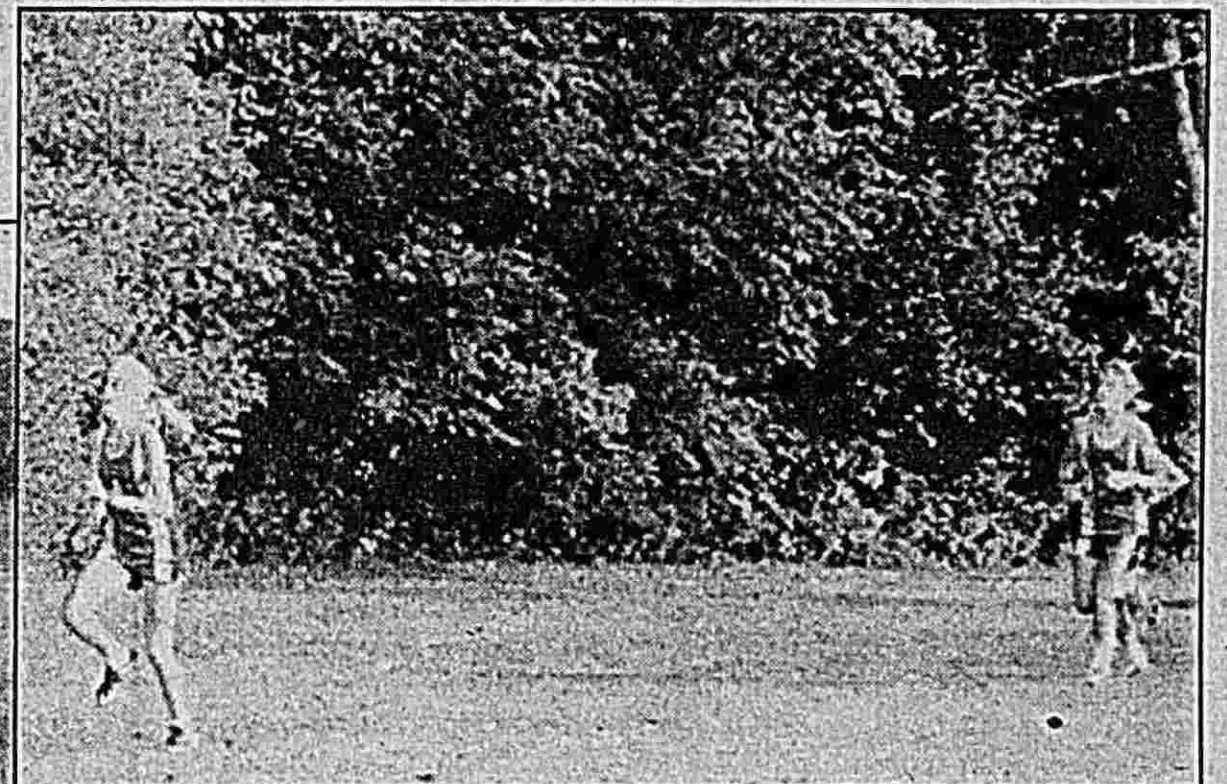

Grant led 4-0 in game two before Antioch got on track. An ace by junior Lisa Holem gave the Bulldogs their biggest lead.

With her team trailing 7-6, Gofron simply took over. She served for 9 straight points, including the aces.

Antioch Youth sweep Fox Lake in opening

The Antioch Youth Football program opened the season on an impressive note Sunday at Antioch High School. The four traveling teams, Pee Wees, Featherweights, Lightweights, and Heavyweights each shut out teams from the Fox Lake Cardinal program. This weekend Antioch travels to Grayslake Sunday with the Pee Wee game beginning at 9 a.m.

The Antioch Pee Wees defeated Fox Lake 13-0. A touchdown run of 29 yards by Taylor Pechauer and a punt return of 44 yards by Jeff Canella for a second Viking TD highlighted the scoring. The Viking defense held the Cardinals to 11 total yards offense and were led by Nicholas Nathan and Chris Pollack.

The Antioch Raiders Featherweights easily defeated Antioch 34-0. Brett Bairstow and Chris Orozco each scored a pair of TD's. Bairstow rushed for 117 yards on 12 carries and Orozco was equally impressive with 120 offensive yards on 12 carries. On the last play of the first half, Adam Lehn scored his first TD of the year. Coach Chuck Grasser praised his defensive unit for holding Fox Lake in check throughout the entire contest.

Running back Mike Smith scored four TD's on just four carries in leading the Vikings Lightweights to an easy 51-0 win over Fox Lake. Smith rushed for 178 yards on the four carries as the Lighweights amassed a total of 424 offensive yards. Fullback Bobby Grasser rushed for 61 yards on eight carries and was the workhorse on offense. Tight end Josh Kaminsky scored on a 16 yard pass from QB Mark Purnell, one of just three passes thrown the entire day. Chris Romano scored his first career TD on a 14 yard reverse and Ryan Wiegel scored the final TD of the afternoon on a one yard run that followed a 29 yard run by Tom Miller. The defense was led by five solo tackles each from Dane Anderson and Grasser. Chris Wold recovered a fumble for the Vikings. Fox Lake was held to 18 yards offensively.

The Antioch Viking Heavyweights got off to an impressive start with a 47-0 win over Fox Lake running back Alan Rapinchuk scored three TD's to lead the Vikings offense. J.T. Litchfield scored a TD along with a touchdown from Chris Rogalla and a TD run by Mike "Heisman" Pocius. The Viking defensive unit was equally impressive holding Fox Lake to yards offensively. Scott Hodina led the defensive unit with 12 tackles and two pass interceptions. Defensive end Pat Swanson played a standout game for coach Al Roth along with a fine performance by Brian Johnson.

The Antioch football program will play at Grayslake Sunday beginning at 9 a.m. with the Pee Wee game.

For further information, contact Al Roth 395-1247.

Stevenson dominates Sequoits

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

The start of the Antioch-Stevenson football games have not been kind of late to Antioch.

In fact, they have been brutal. Sean Coughlin's recovery of a fumble led to the first of many scores Saturday in a 47-0 Stevenson rout. The win kept the Patriots in their accustomed to status - unbeaten in the North Suburban Conference.

"The last three years, we have given them the ball on the opening drive. We just can't seem to get an offense going. Their players are so massive. If they are not big, they are fast," Antioch coach Del Pechauer said.

Stevenson running back Steve Clancy only played about half the game Saturday, but that was as far as the Pats needed his services. Later removed as a precaution for a bruise he suffered, Clancy snared the first TD pass, from Curtis Zervic less than two minutes in to the game.

Kyle Brandt (9 carries, 61 yards) and Brian Novacell took over from there. Brandt, a senior, scored on TD catches of 54 and 5 yards. Adam Butler tallied from 8 yards out for the second score. Reserve Yuya Ota tallied two second half touchdowns.

"Our goal is to get better with each play, each game," Stevenson coach Bill Mitz said.

"Last week, the passes were there - this week they were caught," Mitz said.

"We are still working a few kinks out. We practice the routes 100 times a week. Our passing game is a lot of the short stuff to the flat," Brandt said.

Stevenson, 2-0, had a short week in preparation for a home clash with Warren (0-2 NSC) on Sept. 12.

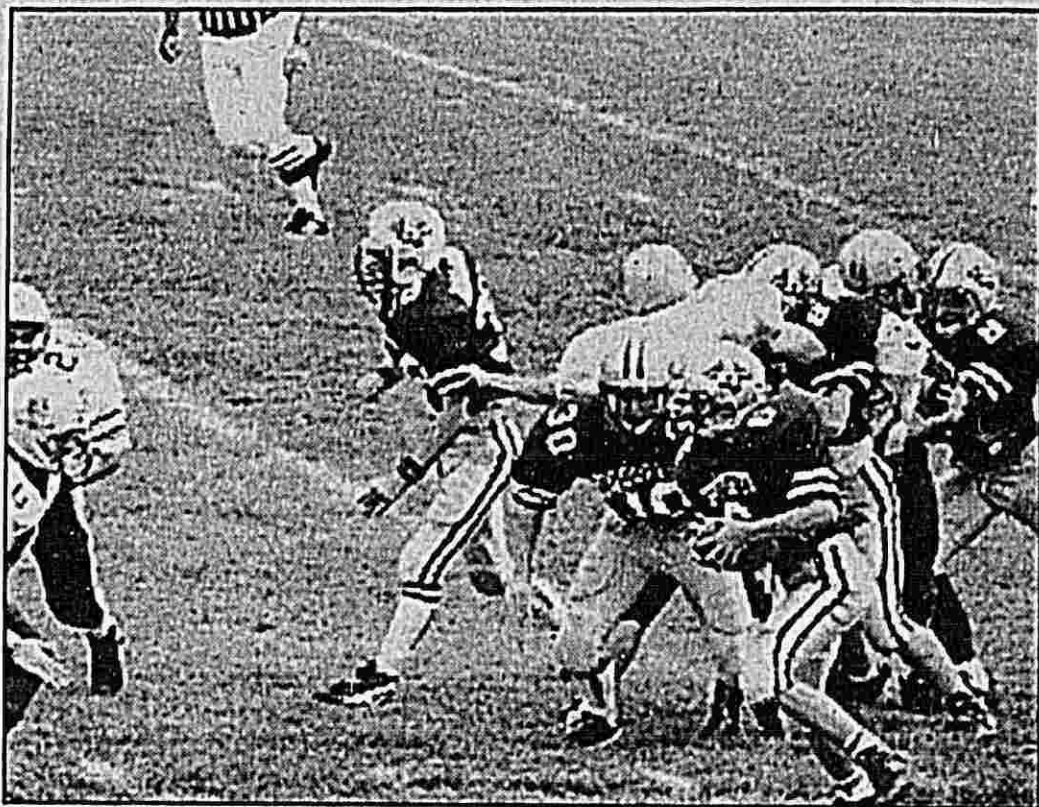

Antioch, outscored 75-0 by Libertyville and Stevenson, takes a break from battling league contenders when the Sequoits host Chicago Harlan at 1 p.m. Sept. 14.

One bright spot for the Sequoits was the play of several defenders. They were led by Stu Johnson, a 5-foot, 9 inch, 170 pound linebacker. He was in on the first tackle and at least 10 more. In one Stevenson series, he was involved in the stop in three straight plays.

"Stu is a good athlete. I wish he were 6-2, 225 but he works hard and understands football. Sometimes he plays linebacker, other times he lines up over center. Reads were not the big problem today - but their linemen were 250, 270 against our 210, 220 guys," Mike Gordy, defensive coordinator, said.

Antioch punter Reggie Hughes continued to keep his 30 plus yards average.

Antioch's Joe Day tries to gain some yardage against a dominant Stevenson team. The Sequoits fell to the powerhouse Patriots 47-0 and will battle Chicago Harlan Sept. 14 at 1 p.m. Punter Reggie Hughes continues to be a bright spot for the team averaging 30 plus yards per punt.—Photo by Steve Young

New logo sails through approval process

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

After months of controversy, the Lake County Board approved a new logo with little fanfare.

Only two of the 23 members of the board voted against the new logo. Casting their votes in disapproval were: Diana O'Kelly of Mundelein and Judy Martini of Antioch.

"I have been against a new logo from the beginning," said O'Kelly. "I didn't think it was necessary and I didn't like the work of the firm chosen for the job." O'Kelly said the county had a logo which wasn't used by all the various departments. "I don't think we should have allowed all the different logos that were in use," O'Kelly said. "My constituents were in an uproar over the first selection and the amount of money being spent on it. I think we need to listen to the constituents."

For Martini the logo "just wasn't a high priority item." "I think we have many skilled people here in Lake County that could have designed the logo and implemented it for less cost," said Martini. "There are a lot more important issues in this county that the board should be solving. I feel the whole process was a waste of time."

Both board members also felt the logo had rushed through.

"The idea in December was to change the logo and order new stationary with the new area code," said Martini. "The area code changed in January and I know stationary has been ordered."

Following a trademark search, the new logo will begin to be implemented in approximately a month according to Lake County Administrator Ike Magalis. County Board Chairman Bob Depke said a preliminary trademark search cleared the logo for use.

"We believe this logo is something that will have a life of 30 years or more and be easily identifiable by all county residents," Magalis said. "The committee wanted to choose something that 40 to 50 agencies could follow."

One member of the public spoke out against the logo.

"Lake County now has a glorified bar code," said Robert Sabonjian, who criticized the board for not using a Lake County firm to decide the logo. "It is a soulless symbol."

The logo will be used on letter head, signs, official vehicles and documents. It is green and blue with a gray background behind the words "Lake County, Illinois."

In addition to approving the logo, county officials will also now uniformly use the term Lake County to refer to itself as opposed to county of Lake, which often appeared on documents in the past.

Homicide ruling stuns crash survivor

Boat passenger did not believe driver was under the influence

TINA L. SWIECH
Staff Reporter

Boat crash survivor Robert "Bob" Heaney said he was surprised when a Lake County Coroner jury ruled the deaths of two passengers homicide due to the drug use of longtime friend and boat driver Arnold "Dick" Carlson.

Heaney was a passenger on a boat driven by Carlson which crashed with another July 11 on Nippersink Lake. Carlson, his son, Chris Carlson and a passenger, Renee Roman, were killed in the crash.

"I never knew the man did that. I never knew the man to do drugs," said Heaney of Fox Lake. Last week a jury of six—two women and four men, met to hear testimony from police officers and other officials involved in piecing together the accident.

Those who testified for the jury were four Lake County Marine Unit Sheriff's deputies; one witness; and two officials from the coroner's office, J.R. Halek and John Roraback.

Joseph Remke, the operator of one of the boats, was subpoenaed to attend, but he waived his right to testify.

The jury deliberated a half hour before coming to a unanimous decision.

Results from the Sept. 4 inquest concluded Dick Carlson had a blood-alcohol level nearly twice the legal amount, as well as traces of cocaine in his system. The level of alcohol in Carlson's blood was .179, according to reports. The legal limit of intoxication is .10.

Homicide was ruled on two of the deaths including Dick's son, Chris Carlson, and passenger Renee Roman, while the jury ruled the elder Carlson's death an 'accident.'

The jury's verdict read, "[Dick] Carlson took an unjustifiable risk in operating his boat recklessly while under the influence of alcohol which resulted in a collision with another boat."

Passengers of Carlson's, Michael Nank, 31, and Heaney, 56, survived the crash with minor injuries.

Daughter sues estate, other boat operator

TINA L. SWIECH
Staff Reporter

Just a month ago, Colleen Russo, daughter of Arnold "Dick" Carlson, was defending her father's reputation—today she is suing his estate.

Arnold Carlson, his son, Chris Carlson and Renee Roman were killed in a boat accident on Nippersink Lake, July 12. Chris Carlson and Roman were passengers on a boat driven by the elder Carlson that evening.

Waukegan attorney Patrick Salvi has filed a wrongful death lawsuit on behalf of Russo, Chris Carlson's mother and Chris' half sister, Geri Lynn McCullough. The suit seeks compensation from the Carlson estate. Joseph Remke, the operator of the boat which collided with Carlson's, is also named in the suit.

Before a coroner's inquest revealed Carlson had a blood-alcohol level of .179 (.10 is the legal limit of intoxication while operating a vehicle including a boat), and traces of cocaine in his body at the time the accident occurred, Russo wanted to spread positive things about her dad.

In essence, if Chris were alive, he may himself be suing the estate of his father Dick Carlson. However parents, spouses or children recover any awards in these cases, Salvi explained.

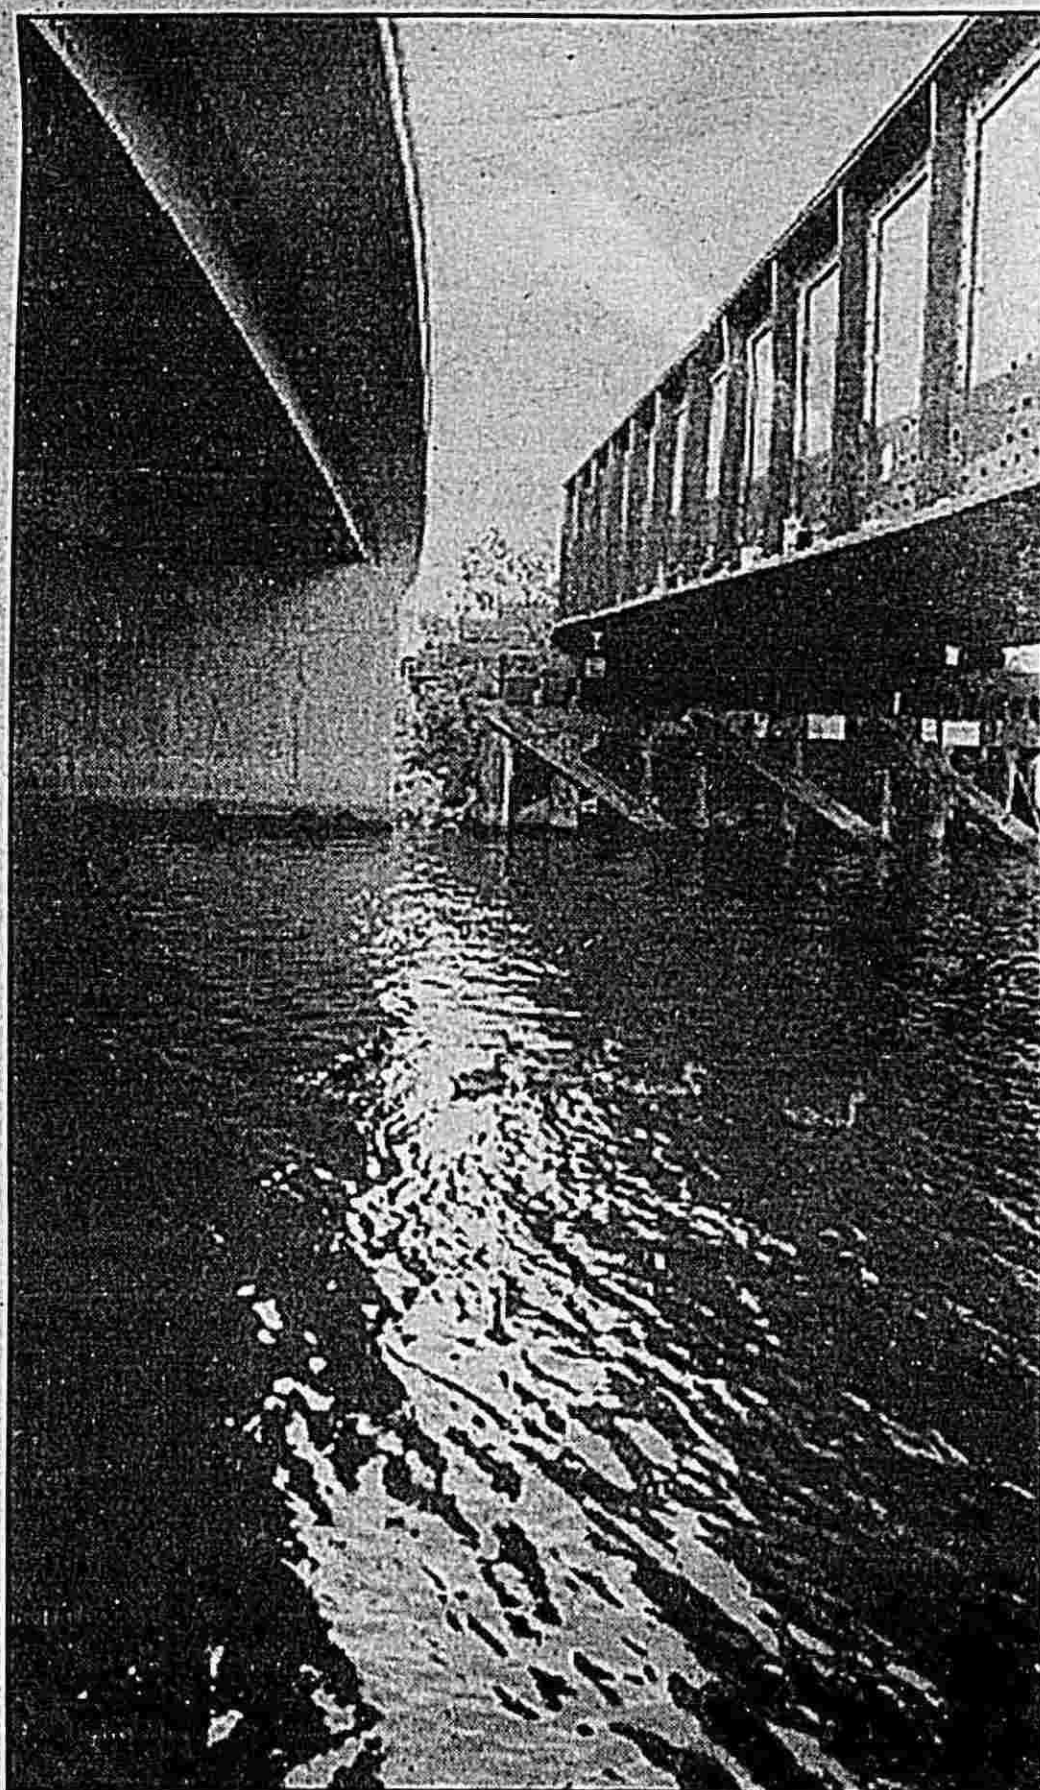

The Sept. 4 inquest has no effect on civil cases, however words testified during the event may be used against those being sued, the attorney said.

"The coroner's jury receives very limited info on how the accident happened," said Salvi.

Not only has there been suit placed against the estate of Dick Carlson, but Remke is also being sued in the wrongful death case, said Salvi.

"I think when it happens (court decision), they'll find there's fault on both sides," he explained. "When they hear that alcohol is involved, it caused people to get very upset. Somebody sober can be just as reckless."

There has been no court date set as of yet, but Lake County Judge Charles F. Scott will be presiding.

Ducks pass under the now peaceful U.S. Rte. 12 bridge where two boats collided July 12. The deaths of two passengers on Dick Carlson's boat were ruled a homicide by the Lake County Coroner's inquest. Carlson's death was ruled accidental. He had a blood alcohol limit of .179 and traces of cocaine in his system according to the coroner. — Photo by Sandra Bressner

Volkert returns to Cyd Lash Academy as principal

Dr. Rebecca Volkert officially returned "home" as principal of Cyd Lash Academy (formerly known as Central High School) in Libertyville.

Beth Gardell and SEDOL's Assistant Superintendent, Dr. Carol Du Clos covered the principal's duties since the untimely death of former Central High School Principal Cyd Lash.

Dr. Volkert began her career in education at SEDOL as a student teacher in 1974. From 1974 until 1980 she taught special education classes at SEDOL. In 1980 she took the position of Director of Special Education at Round Lake School District. During this time, she worked with Central High School staff in fulfilling the educational needs of Round Lake students who were placed at the school. Dr. Volkert returned to the classroom last year in the Alternate High School program in Round Lake. She also teaches on the college level at National-Louis University in Evanston.

In addition, Dr. Volkert owns, trains, and shows horses and has won many awards including the National Champion of English Showing.

Cyd Lash Academy provides an alternative high school setting for severe behavior disordered and emotionally disturbed adolescents from all 37 school districts in Lake County. The school provides temporary placement of students to gain the academic and behavioral skills necessary to successfully return to their home schools.

SEDOL's geographic area covers about 400 square miles within Lake County and provides educational programs for approximately 2600 students with mild to very severe disabilities within 37 member districts.

Villages create boundaries

LONG GROVE—The villages of Long Grove and Hawthorn Woods were expected to sign and announce a history-making boundary agreement between the two villages. In an era of decentralization of large government, the joint agreement aims to provide a mutual boundary in unincorporated areas between the two villages. It also hopes to grip uncontrolled growth.

Long Grove Village President Lenore Simmons said, "The wasteful cost of government services is directly related to growth that is done without regard to comprehensive planning, costs for unplanned schools, highways, sewers, water, police and fire services.—STAFF REPORT

Senate to hold hearings

ANTIOCH—Illinois Senate will hold a special hearing on boating safety Aug. 24, 10 a.m. at Antioch Village Hall. The purpose of the hearing is to receive more information and public input regarding boat safety.

Senator Adeline Geo-Karis has a bill she is preparing for the Senate and she says she would like more input to make it stronger. The bill would have provisions calling for penalties for boaters who are caught under the influence of alcohol. Geo-Karis said boaters should realize boating under the influence can be as dangerous as driving under the influence.—by ALEC JUNG

Resident charged with arson

PARK CITY—A Park City resident was charged with arson following a home fire on Sept. 3. Wayne Sherlock, 49, was charged with one count of arson after a home burned down at 3307 Judy. "Gasoline was poured throughout the home and there was a molotov cocktail," Mike Luff, Park City Police chief said.

No neighboring structures were damaged or threatened. Damage to Sherlock's mobile was listed at $15,000, according to the Gurnee Fire Department. Sherlock suffered second degree burns to his left arm. He was transported to St. Therese Medical Center in Waukegan.

"There was a strong smell of accelerant with a large quantity of flammable solvent and numerous physical evidence," Gurnee Fire Chief Tim McGrath said.

There was fire, heat and smoke damage throughout the building, according to the fire department report. There was quite a bit of fire," McGrath said.—by STEVE PETERSON

Residents want planners

ANTIOCH TOWNSHIP—Carol Jonites, president of United Homeowners Associations of Unincorporated Antioch, is questioning the resolve of Antioch Township Board to create a township plan commission. Jonites said trustees should move the matter forward even if a petition signed by many residents wasn't worded properly.

Trustee Tim Osmond has noted the board is checking the jurisdictional issue especially as it relates to the Village of Antioch.

If a plan commission existed, it would take a 3/4 vote of the County Board to approve a subdivision over the objections of a plan commission and town board. The township board is still researching the effectiveness of other township plan commissions.—By ALEC JUNG

Alpine races draw big

LAKE ZURICH—More than 900 runners are anticipated to hit the streets and compete in the annual Lake Zurich Alpine Races on Sunday, Sept. 15. The races have been a fall fixture in Lake Zurich for the past 18 years, and are continuing with the support of the Lake Zurich Jaycees and the Alpine Runners. Featured races include a wheelchair 10K, a 10 K run, a 5K run and walk, Kiddi runs and a Youth mile. The 10 K run is officially recognized by the Chicago Area Runners Association.

The 5 and 10 K runs will both start and finish at the top parking lot at Lake Zurich High School, 300 Church St., with runners traversing across a hilly terrain.

The wheelchair race will start at 8 a.m., followed by the 10 K at 8:05 a.m. The 5 K run and walk will start at 8:10 a.m., with the Kiddi runs starting at 8:30 a.m. and the Youth mile at 9:30 a.m.

Runners and walkers still wanting to compete should show up on race day and register between 6 to 7:30 a.m. The entry fee is $20 on race day and includes a sweatshirt to the first 600 registered entrants. The Youth mile is $10 and includes a T-shirt to the first 100 entrants. Kiddi runs are $1, with all participants getting a ribbon.—by SPENCER SCHEIN

Museum features archaeology

WAUCONDA—Archaeologists young and old are invited to spend a day at the Lake County Museum Sunday, Sept. 15 and experience a variety of different archaeology activities.

The activity day is one of several programs based on archaeology the museum is hosting this fall.

The activity day is the first, and will feature six tables, each having a different aspect of what an archaeologist actually does.

One table entitled "Pottery Puzzles" will feature activities where participants will match the styles of different pottery pieces, matching pieces together and guessing the types of pottery, she said.

Another table will be set outside, weather permitting, where individuals can sift through sand and learn the different methods used to sift through dry and wet sand.

People can also learn how to label artifacts, sort stone tools and analyze lab samples on other tables.

The activities will be held from 1 to 4 p.m., with an admission fee of $3.50 required. No reservations are required.

The museum is located in the Lakewood Forest Preserve on Route 176, west of Fairfield Road, near Wauconda.—by SPENCER SCHEIN

St. Pat's presents musical

WADSWORTH—St. Pat's Players, a theatre group from St. Patrick's Church in Wadsworth will present "Once Upon a Mattress," Sept. 12, 13 and 14 at 7 p.m. and Sept 15 at 4 p.m. in the Boehm Center located in St. Patrick's School. The play is described as an adult musical comedy directed by Louann Stambaugh and will be accompanied by a full orchestra.

"This is a musical version of 'The Princess and the Pea,' set in medieval times. It was originally done on Broadway with Carol Burnett in the 1960s," she explained. "It's not one with instant name recognition but kids will enjoy it and adults will enjoy it too."

Tickets are priced as follows: adults $7; seniors over 55, $5; and children under 12, $3. Tickets are available at the door with no reserved seating.—by ELIZABETH EAKEN

Busing issue closed for now

GRAYSLAKE—When Grayslake District 46 announced busing would be eliminated for children living within 1.5 miles from Woodview grade school parents spoke up against the idea and raised several safety concerns with regards to the walk route.

Hazards noted by the parents included gaps at a railroad crossing wide enough for a child's foot to fit in, heavy traffic including inexperienced high school drivers and the increased number of trains in the area with the start up of the North Central Metra Line.

The district has since reinstated the busing not because of the parents concerns but because of nearby construction traffic. Under the current status the children would have to resume walking once the construction is completed. The current construction project at the high school is expected to last approximately two years.

The district said it plans to pursue a study to determine whether the route is hazardous according to state and federal standards and if it qualifies they will also apply for bus funding grants.

Liz Thomsen a parent who was instrumental in galvanizing other parents in the subdivision together on the issue said they don't plan to stop their crusade.

"This isn't going away and I don't want to do this over in two years," she said.—by ELIZABETH EAKEN

Race supports DARE program

ROUND LAKE BEACH—Kids will be racing against drugs on suped-up lawn tractors with a chance at the national finals, at the Super K-Mart in Round Lake Beach this weekend.

K-Mart will be sponsoring the Kids Race Against Drugs event which will take place from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and then noon to 6 p.m. Sunday, at the stores' west parking lot located at 400 East Rollins Road.

Children between the ages of 7 and 13 will have a chance to participate in any of the races throughout the day, at $5 a ride. Momentum Inc. of St. Louis is providing its special racing lawn tractors for the event.

DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) officers from the Round Lake Beach Police Department will be on hand to meet and greet visitors. They will have on display a couple of their DARE cars—one is a Mustang, confiscated from a convicted drug dealer.

Two police officers will arrive on their department bicycles; and the Mobile Eye will have a booth set up.

On Sunday, Round Lake Beach Police Chief will ride a grudge match against Fire Chief Paul Maplethorpe.

The DARE program will get a shot in the arm from the days' races when it receives a $5,000 donation from the K-Mart Corporation.—by TINA L. SWIECH

Great Lakes museum a community effort

Families with Navy ties have a unique opportunity to participate in the establishment of the Great Lakes Naval Museum, a far-reaching endeavor that is sure to achieve landmark status when completed.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony has been scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 27, at the museum's home at Great Lakes Naval Training Center. The ceremony coincides with the 85th anniversary of the commissioning of the base.

One way local residents can take part is contributing memorabilia that is being gathered for exhibits. Old uniforms, photographs, letters written by former recruits and decorations are especially welcome. Nothing is being turned down, according to Leland "Trig" Watson, a retired civilian employee with 40 years of Great Lakes service, who serves as curator.

Watson and his wife, Dottie, residents of Mundelein, conceived the idea of a Navy museum at Great Lakes eight years ago and have been working virtually full-time on the project that has the enthusiastic support of Navy officials.

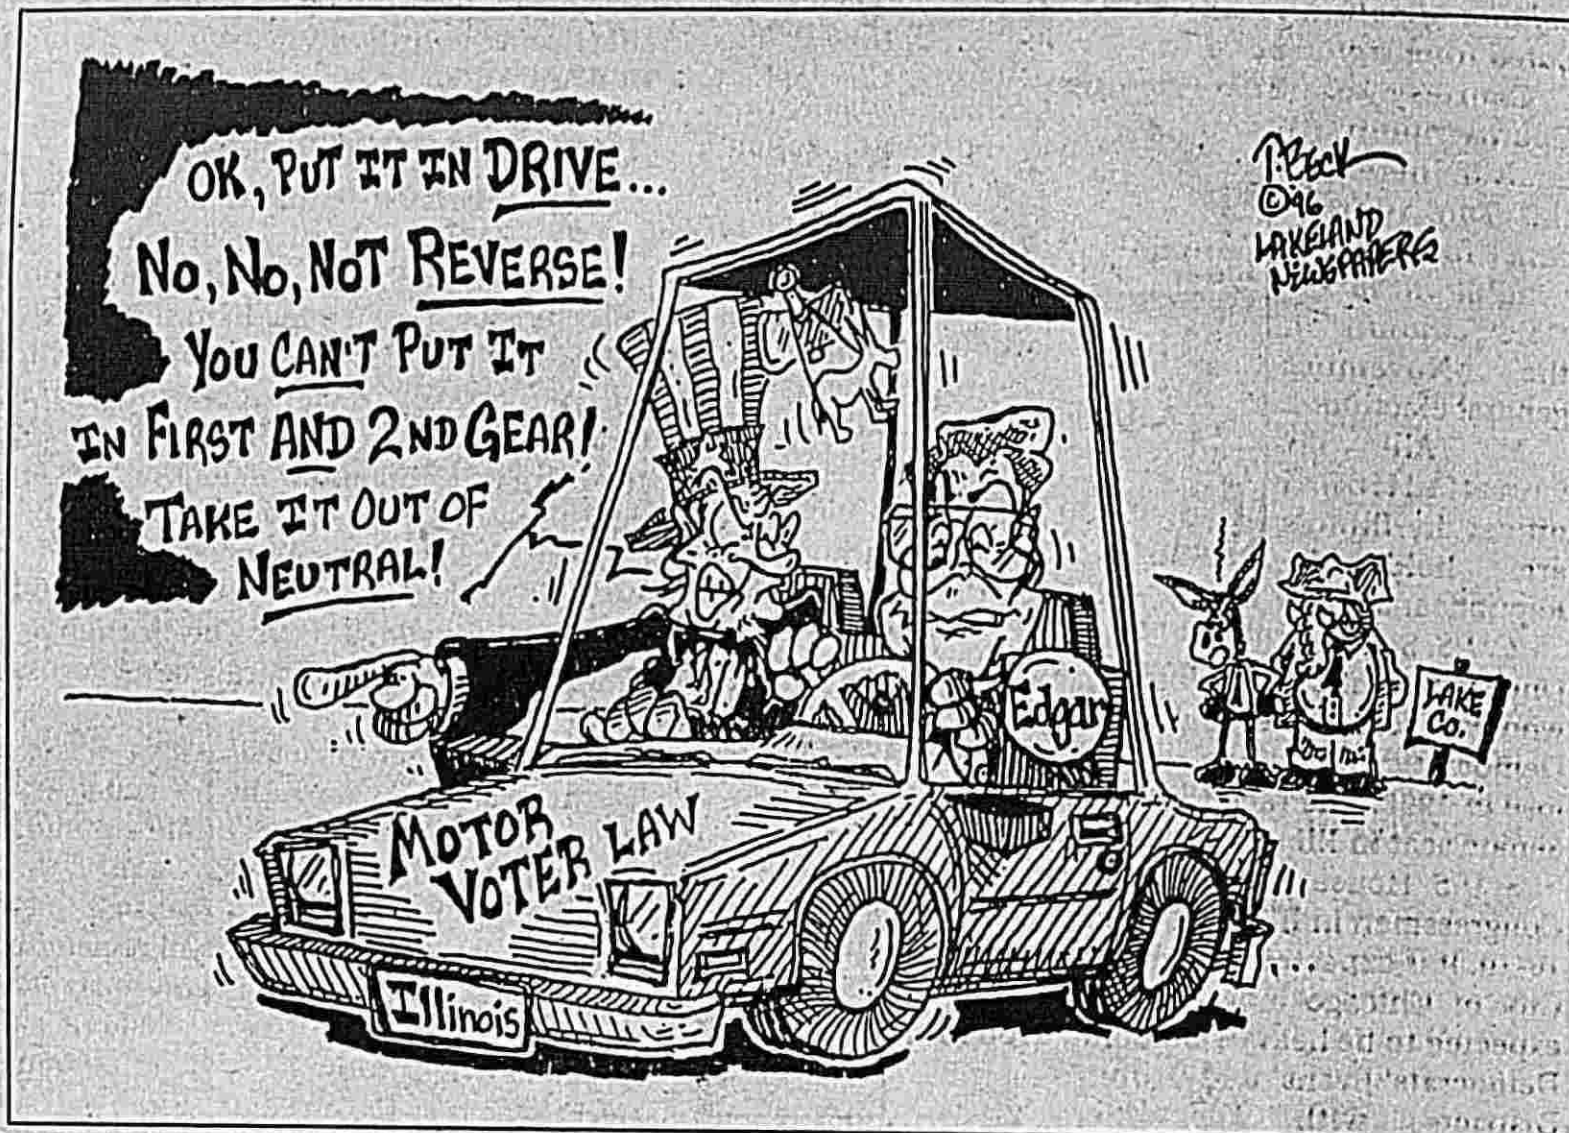

Contributions of material and cash contributions to defray expenses can be made to the museum at P.O. Box 886307, Great Lakes, IL 60088, or by calling the Watsons at 847-566-7743. A civilian, not-for-profit association of volunteers headed by Roycealee J. Wood, prominent Lake County educator, oversees the museum.

Professional curators are consulting on the formation of displays and exhibits. They have a rich heritage to draw upon. President Theodore Roosevelt pushed for construction of the inland training base. Great Lakes played a prominent role in the establishment of Naval aviation. The museum will eulogize famous Great Lakes alumni like polar explorer Richard E. Byrd, screen star Spencer Tracy, columnist Walter Winchell, Hall of Fame pitcher Bob Feller, football coach Paul Brown, world champion boxer Tony Zale, march king John Philip Sousa and Lake County's own Jack Benny, who took recruit training at Great Lakes.

When it demonstrates its historic and educational value, solid attendance, professional staff and a credit to the service, Watson said Great Lakes Naval Museum hopes to take its place as one of a handful of official Navy museums. The Secretary of the Navy will make that decision.

Even in its formative state, the museum will be a valuable civic, cultural and educational asset. It will enhance Lake County tourism. There are no other maritime museums in the Chicago metropolitan area.

Gingiss candidacy a GOP formula

BILL SCHROEDER

Publisher

Republican leaders had a formula in mind when they set out to find a formidable challenger for State Rep. Lauren Beth Gash, the lone Democrat in the Lake County Springfield delegation.

They wanted a white male Jew, according to Joel Gingiss. "They got one," exclaims Gingiss matter-of-factly. And he adds quickly, with no undue modesty, "And a whole lot more."

Former Navy fighter pilot, retired CEO of a successful, high profile Chicago area business, and prosecutor in the felony division of the Lake County state's attorney's office.

The U.S. Naval Academy graduate is used to testing himself. Every carrier landing is a test of courage and self-reliance. Following Vietnam-era duty, Gingiss came home to take over the reins of the family formal wear business whose name is virtually a household word in Chicago. "We had a good business, but it wasn't profitable. I changed that. I brought in new managers. They're still with the company, even after several changes of ownership."

Missing day-to-day business challenges, the Annapolis alum made the mid-life decision to head in a new direction—law school. After passing the bar exam, Joel affiliated with the state's attorney's office, a position he regards as public service which dovetails with his new career aspirations.

Gingiss' posture as a fiscal conservative and social moderate fits well with the character of the upscale, moderate to liberal 60th State Legislative Dist. covering Vernon Hills, Lincolnshire, Deerfield and a major portion of Highland Park.

Veteran political observers feel Gash won her Springfield seat on a fluke. Two strong female Republicans chewed each other up in the primary, paving victory for the lone male in three-way GOP battle for a nomination. Unmarried and Catholic, Charlie Cardella's anti-abortion and arch-conservative views were out of sync with the district. Gash won the general election in a walk. She was reelected two years ago, running as an independent Democrat.

"That's a myth," asserts Gingiss. "Gash is no independent and she's no moderate. She takes orders from Mike Madigan and gets her campaign funds from unions."

Gingiss' approach to lawmaking is unique in an era of stultifying over-regulation. Government burdens business at all levels, in Gingiss' opinion. "I'm pro job. If elected, I'm going to Springfield with an eraser." Under Republican leadership, Gingiss says it's amazing the number of inquiries coming from out-of-state for company relocations to Illinois.

The Gingiss-Gash clash will be one of the poster General Assembly battles this fall. Both sides will be well financed and supported by party leaders.

Gingiss, 60, is drawing heavily on life experiences to shape his candidacy, the military providing leadership and organization, business giving an economic perspective and marketing style, and the state's attorneys office providing insights into the way government works.

Joel isn't overlooking special touches that spell the difference between victory and defeat. Campaign colors are black and white. Bumper stickers carry lettering similar to the famed formal wear company's logo, a trademark as familiar in Lake County as Coca Cola.

If guys in the district still remember where they rented their high school prom tux, Joel Gingiss already has a head start in his drive to oust Gash.

Bill Schroeder offers editorial commentary every Tuesday on Lake County Live presented by STAR Channel 3/U.S. Cable at 5:30 and 7:30 p.m.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Devoid of family values

Editor:

Wake up America, more sex allegations in the Clinton administration. Democrats emphasize family values but seem to have none themselves.

Dick Morris' resignation amid allegations of a sex scandal along with the allegations about Clinton that surfaced back in 1992 about this long-standing affair is an embarrassment to all who voted for him.

This administration has no family values nor does it keep promises made about tax relief for middle class Americans. Clinton outlines his achievements and says let's build that bridge to the 21st century, meet our challenges and protect our basic values.

What kind of people does he have in his administration? People using drugs and being involved in sex allegations including himself. Once again like he did four years ago, he is promising tax breaks for the middle class. Don't count on it. He convinced so many people we needed change and that's what so many people were left with in their pockets, CHANGE! He broke most of his promises.

It is time to put Bob Dole in charge. A man who fought for his country, instead of a wimp who dodged the draft.

Top 10 reasons for GOP success in November

Party Lines, Lakeland Newspapers' column of political commentary, is prepared from staff reports.

1. All six Constitutional offices in Illinois are held by Republicans.
2. U.S. Senate—One Democratic U.S. Senator is retiring who was very vulnerable and the other Democratic U.S. Senator is expected to lose in 1998. The race for the open U.S. Senate seat in Illinois is drawing even.
3. U.S. House of Representatives—20 Congressmen in Illinois equally divided 10-10. It is expected to remain that way. City of Chicago and Costello District expected to be heavy Democrat, even in Democrats' Evans' and Durbin's Districts, with all other areas Republican and the specific area of the Collar Counties (equal to Chicago voting pop.) will be overwhelming Republican.
4. Illinois State House has a Republican majority.
5. Illinois State Senate has a Republican majority.
6. Republicans are slightly better united than Democrats.
7. A significant amount of Democratic Roman Catholics are defecting from Clinton/Gore.
8. VP Candidate Kemp is far more popular in Illinois than VP Gore.
9. Elizabeth Dole is very favorably received and Hillary Clinton has extremely high negative ratings.
10. Issues/Team/Finances in Illinois favor Republicans.

The famed Shannon Rovers will be part of the entertainment cooked up by Deerfield Township trustees, hosts for the evening.

Only in Cook—A jurist in Cook County, where the dispensation of justice always is creative, lamented that a citizen challenge of a Maine Township decision to build an office addition opposed by electors constituted "mob rule." The story was told in Grant Township where there is debate over building a new office complex without benefit of referendum approval by voters.

Loffredo

New title—Libertyville Trustee Robert Bajko only smiles when someone refers to him as the "junk man." He considers it recognition of Libertyville's leadership in a new commercial recycling program. Bajko is the village's liaison to the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County. The effort is expected to generate 20 tons of trash per month when fully operational.

Packer backer—County Board member Jim Stanczak of Waukegan made no secret about who he supports this season. Following the Pack's 39-12 win over Philadelphia on Monday night football, Stanczak showed his colors with a Packer tie at Tuesday's meeting.

We believe, due to the propaganda aimed against the people of the United States by its government, that we live in a democracy, when in fact Article 4, Section 4 of the constitution of the United States of America guarantees us a republican form of government. Attitude toward law is the administration of justice in accord with fixed principles and established evidence, with a strict regard to consequences. A greater number of citizens and extent of territory may be brought within its compass. Avoids the dangerous extreme of either tyranny or mobocracy. Results in statesmanship, liberty, reason, justice, contentment, and progress."

Why is our government attempting to subvert our constitution by promoting democracy when it is their absolute duty to promote our republic? Fifty-one percent determine the rights of 49 percent in a democracy, one citizen has unalienable rights in a republic which no one can take away. We still have unalienable rights in this Republic, but we have to stand up alone to claim them. Our government no longer protects us, they use us as their financial lifeline to promote themselves and other corporate entities. Remember our pledge to the flag "...and to the Republic, for which it stands..."

News found by diggers

Editor:

We noted that the recent Republican and Democratic conventions in San Diego and Chicago were marked by sourpuss, world-weary members of the press who squawked about the lack of "real news" during the process of nominating presidential and vice-presidential candidates. Even the usually dogged Ted (Kopout) Koppel decided to ignore the Chicago convention for his Nightline TV report, suggesting it was too predictable.

By contrast, Lakeland Newspapers', Editor-in-chief, Rhonda Hetrick Burke, showed journalistic enterprise by working the floor of the United Center at the Dem's convention and turning out a very interesting, readable piece about the diversity of delegates present at the political event. Prima donna media people should go back to basics and stay whining. The stories are there for the curious and able reporter to get.

What makes Bob run?

Editor:

This still puzzles me, why is Bob Neal willing to spend $135,000 in order to be Recorder of Deeds?

Public records shows that Neal has already spent $57,000 while his opponent, Mary Ellen Vanderventer, has only spent some $9,000 to date. Why doesn't he want this job so badly? And who will be donating the additional $80,000?

As taxpayers we already pay Neal a salary and benefits because he is on the Illinois Tollway Authority, the County Board and the Forest Preserved. And now he wants to add the Recorder's salary to his bank roll. Why?

So many questions, too few answers.

Unions fight change

Editor:

The most disheartening "spin" of the Democratic convention was the deliberate mischaracterization of Bob Dole's attack on the teacher's unions as an attack on education in general and every teacher in particular.

The teacher's unions have stood in the way of even the smallest change: competency testing and merit pay for teachers, charter schools, etc. No amount of fiddling (like changing the SAT test numbers) can hide the fact the average student is less competent than his counterpart in other industrialized nations or the students of 30 years ago. Just like gun control, the biggest victims of the status quo are inner city residents. To preserve the last shred of the education bureaucracy, the Democrats are prepared to sacrifice another generation of students.

Poor Gary Aldrich. The Dick Morris affair is just one more confirmation that he told the truth in "Unlimited Access." The President is surrounded by people whose "lifestyle" allows them to spill the secrets of the White House to anyone, even without blackmail. But the security of the country doesn't count, the perversion of government institutions to hold on to power is unimportant, even wholesale violations of the law must be swept under the rug. The most important thing for the Religious Left and its media minions is to keep power no matter what the cost to the country as a whole. They may succeed, but a Clinton second term will be identical to Nixon's second term: a continuous series of political, foreign policy and economic crises.

Lambs catalog earns national acclaim

ALEC JUNG

Staff Reporter

Lambs Farm Country Gifts Catalog received nationwide attention after getting selected as a finalist in the 1996 Catalog Awards.

The catalog was organized by Vince Giacomini, director of operations at Lambs Farm, Jack Bryant & Associates and Michelle Kahn, volunteer coordinator at Lambs.

"We want to make it appeal to all types of persons," said David Bryant of Jack Bryant & Associates.

Bryant explained the photography for the tantalizing food is meticulously drawn out, designed and then shot by a Polaroid camera first.

"It may not look the same on camera as it was drawn out," Bryant said.

Bryant said the emphasis is placed on highlighting the strength of the catalog, the food options themselves.

"We want to bring the food into the best possible light," Bryant added.

Deciding on what to put in the catalog is another story.

Making those decisions was the Lambs staff.

Kahn said the catalog starts with what sells well the year before. Next, staff suggests new products and then the list is whittled to make it fit.

Also, once a draft is made, it is reviewed and revisions are made to the copy and layout.

Kahn is proud of what was accomplished since it was a seasonal piece.

"It showed we can compete with people who do this all year," Kahn said.

Each year, Catalog Age selects a panel of professionals in the industry to judge both consumer and business-to-business catalogs on the cover, design, production, copy, merchandising, marketing/catalog concept and customer service. For the first time, Lambs Farm Country Gifts Catalog was selected as a finalist out of hundreds of entries in the food category.

Jack Bryant & Associates has handled the design and photography for the last three years. See ACCLAIM page B7

Hooved Animal Humane Society celebrates 25 years of saving animals

An organization dedicated to saving the life and health of equine and other hooved animals is celebrating a quarter of a century in existence. There is also a new building as well.

The Hooved Animal Humane Society (HAHS) is inviting everyone to join in on the dedication of its new building and anniversary, Sept. 15, at the headquarters on 10804 McConnell Road, Woodstock.

TINA L. SWIECH
Staff Reporter

Movie and television actress Kim Lankford will be a special guest. She had been seen on such shows as Knots Landing and the Love Boat, including a number of films.

US99 DJ, Wild Bill Garcia, will emcee the event. The Country Roads band will provide live entertainment throughout the day. There will be pony rides and a wagon offering rides that will be pulled by a team of Clydesdales.

Cost for the event is $15 for adults, and $7 for children in advance; or $20 and $10 at the door. Lunch is included.

HAHS services the entire nation, not just Lake and McHenry counties, explained Shiela Eiler, public relations for the organization.

It all began in 1971 when Donna Ewing went in search of a horse for her daughter. At a Barrington ranch, she thought she might find what she was looking for.

Instead she was shocked to discover a herd of Arabian horses, malnourished, some which had already gone through agonizing, slow deaths.

She contacted everyone she could find, including police and animal control. No one had the authority to intercede.

Ewing, together with Dr. Bromwell of the Illinois Department of Agriculture, were able to get legislation passed in 1973.

Their goal continues to be met promoting the humane treatment of hooved animals through education, investigation and if necessary, legal intervention.

In 1989, HAHS expanded with the purchase of a 26-acre Woodstock farm.

The three small barns and administrative office in the lower level of Ewing's home were not enough however.

This year, through donations of thousands of concerned horsepeople, a 9,600-square-foot building was constructed on the grounds.

Eiler explained there is plenty of room for the growing organization including a lobby and sitting area, and a room to hold used tack (horse equipment such as blankets, saddles, and brushes).

There is also an area where speakers can talk to crowds during special events.

Eiler said HAHS is made up of many volunteers, and a full-time staff of three with four part-timers on the payroll.

Complaints come into HAHS which generates them to put in force their special team of investigators. Each investigator is highly qualified, and must meet certain criteria before being hired, she said.

"We try to work with the owners, and generally they are cooperative" said Eiler. But sometimes the owners are not willing to correct the situations, even after a warning is issued by the Department of Agriculture.

After a certified opinion, the owner could go to jail, charged with cruelty.

The abused animals are taken to HAHS and rehabilitated, back to good health. Some of the results are amazing, as can be seen in the Hoofprints magazine published by HAHS.

Sadly, there are animals that are too far gone, too badly abused and they must be put to sleep by humane means. "It's not the quantity of life," said Eiler, "it's the quality of life."

There are now 17 ponies, horses and mules at the ranch; and 14 pot bellied pigs, one goat (HAHS mascot) and a couple of chickens. "We've kind of rescued a little bit of everything," Eiler explained.

HAHS also has a new program which is direct adoption between rehabilitated horses and prospective owners. The perfect owners are matched with their perfect horse, said Eiler.

To purchase tickets to the celebration or for more information, contact HAHS Rehabilitation Farm at (815) 337-5563.

Minutes From Honolulu

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

First a real quick geography lesson. The five major islands making up the Hawaiian chain are, Kauai, Maui, the island of Hawaii (The "Big Island"), Molokai and finally the Island of Oahu, where you'll find the capitol city of Honolulu and Waikiki Beach.

If it's your first visit to the islands, and you can only stay a week, you may want to spend your entire stay on Oahu and save the other islands for your next trip, and I guarantee you will go back! To be honest, Oahu is a little too "touristy" for me. However, it is home to Pearl Harbor, Waikiki Beach, Diamond Head and many other "must see" sites for the first-time visitor.

You can still get away from the crowds of tourists who flock to Waikiki Beach, and explore nature by taking advantage of Honolulu's network of hiking trails which are just minutes from the city. You don't even need to rent a car to reach Honolulu's trails, as most are accessible by city bus.

Let's start with a hike to the top of Hawaii's most famous landmark. If you think the view of Diamond Head is spectacular from Waikiki Beach, you should see the beach from atop Diamond Head! It's actually a very easy 30 minute hike to the top of Diamond Head via a trail within the interior of the crater. At the end of the trail is an old artillery bunker where you'll climb a few steps and out through the opening where the guns used to be. Be ready for a breath-taking view of the city of Honolulu.

Who hasn't dreamed of swimming in a tropical pool below a waterfall? Another easy mile-long trail will take you to the base of Manoa Falls where you can do just that.

The 1.3 mile Judd Trail, which runs along the Nuuanu creek, also offers the casual hiker a chance for a dip in the Jackass Ginger Pool at the trail's end.

For the more adventurous, the Lanipo/Mau'umae Trail offers those in good shape a four to six hour hike to the 2,600 foot summit of the Koalaus mountains. There you'll be treated to a panoramic view of Diamond Head, Waikiki and most of Oahu's Leeward Coast.

For a map of Honolulu's trails, write to The State Division of Forestry and Wildlife, 1151 Punchbowl St., Rm. 325, Honolulu HI 96813. Include a 9x12 envelope and 78 cents postage. You can also call them at 808-587-0166 for recommendations of escorted hikes.

Quilts, wall hangings and matching spreads and shams can add a special and "homey" touch to any bedroom adding a unique and individual look to a home.

Many of the most popular bedroom linens sold in major department store catalogs begin right here in Lake County and residents will now be able to purchase these items at Cherished Dreams, Gurnee Mills' newest store.

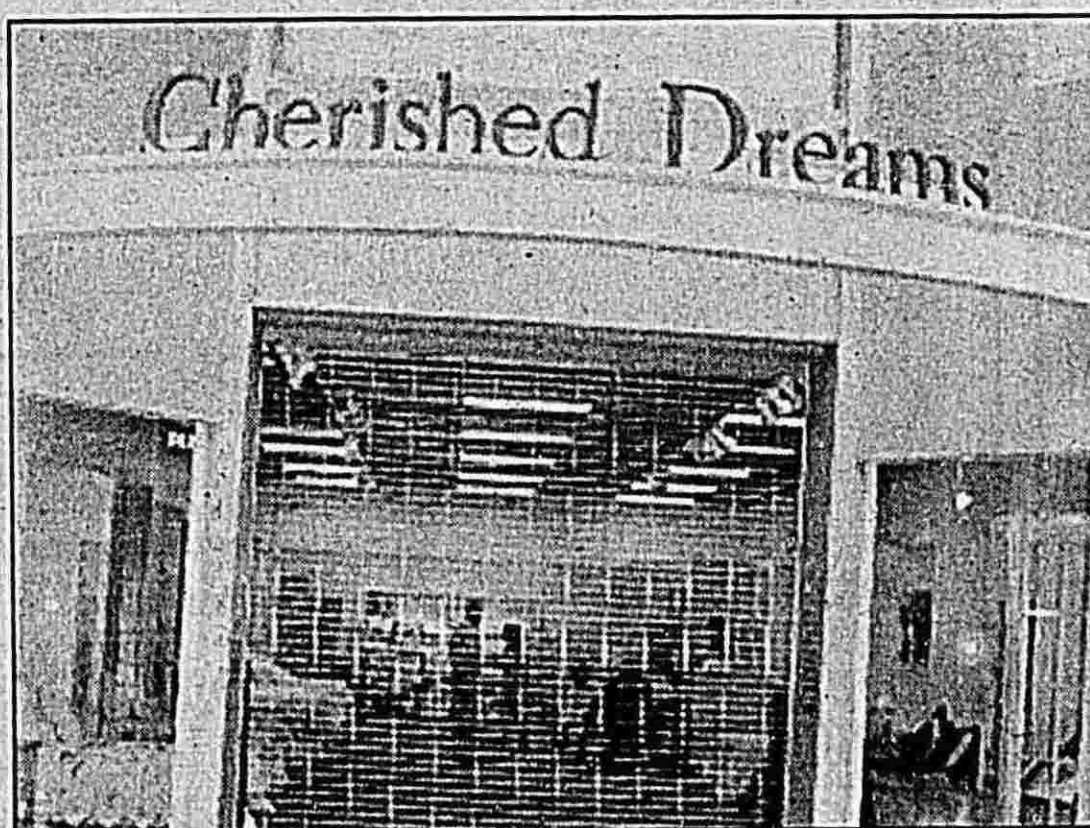

Nostalgia Home Fashions, headquartered in Mundelein, is a leader in the textile industry specializing in bedroom fashion. The company designs and manufactures quilts, comforters, dust ruffles, pillow shams, toss pillows, window treatments, table rounds and duvets all of which coordinate to provide a complete designer look in the bedroom.

"Bedrooms should be a place to decorate and they should give refuge to the homeowner," said Nancy Lambert, designer for Nostalgia Home Fashions.

"We want our customers to have fashion they can appreciate and afford," said Leslie Minkus, executive vice president of Nostalgia Home Fashions.

Until the opening of the Gurnee Mills store this week, Nostalgia Home Fashions' products could only be purchased through catalogue or department store sales. Once a year, the company would open their doors to the public for a tent sale in Mundelein.

the success of our last tent sale," said Minkus. Because the company is located in a business park in Mundelein, they were not allowed under zoning codes to operate a retail store out of the building.

"We have been very pleased with Gurnee Mills so far," said Minkus. "We think it's a great location for a retail store and a wonderful opportunity to market our products."

Consumers will most likely recognize many of Nostalgia Home Fashions products from Spiegel or J. C. Penney catalogues.

"Everything we produce is hand-crafted," said Minkus. "Whether it is crocheted or hand-painted."

The price of the items, however, remains reasonable.

"Our goal is to produce top quality items at a price people can afford," said Minkus. "We recognize the market and try to make our items affordable to consumers."

All the items sold by Nostalgia Home Fashions are made of 100 percent cotton and most items are machine washable.

"It is important to us as a company that people are able to use these items and easily care for them," Minkus said.

The company operated under the name of Nostalgia Lace for eight years until it was purchased by Jerry Zhang, a Chinese immigrant, in 1992.

"Jerry came to us after having worked in the textile industry in China for many years," said Minkus. "His experience and his contacts in China have helped Nostalgia Home Fashions to expand and grow tremendously in the last four years."

ing a masters' degree because he felt he could fill a void in the home fashion industry.

Each of the quilt and matching bedroom coordinates are designed in Mundelein by Lambert, a Hawthorn Woods resident, who has been with the company for many years.

"I make the designs and patterns here and we produce a prototype of the design in Mundelein," said Lambert. "We try to make designs that are compatible with lifestyle trends and changes." The articles are then handcrafted in the company's Chinese factories under strict monitoring from the Mundelein firm.

"Designing fashions is a constant challenge and an artistic challenge to bring together different fabrics, prints and designs together from start to finish," Lambert said. "We do a lot of market research."

For wholesale buyers, the company has showrooms in New York, Dallas and Atlanta as well as Mundelein.

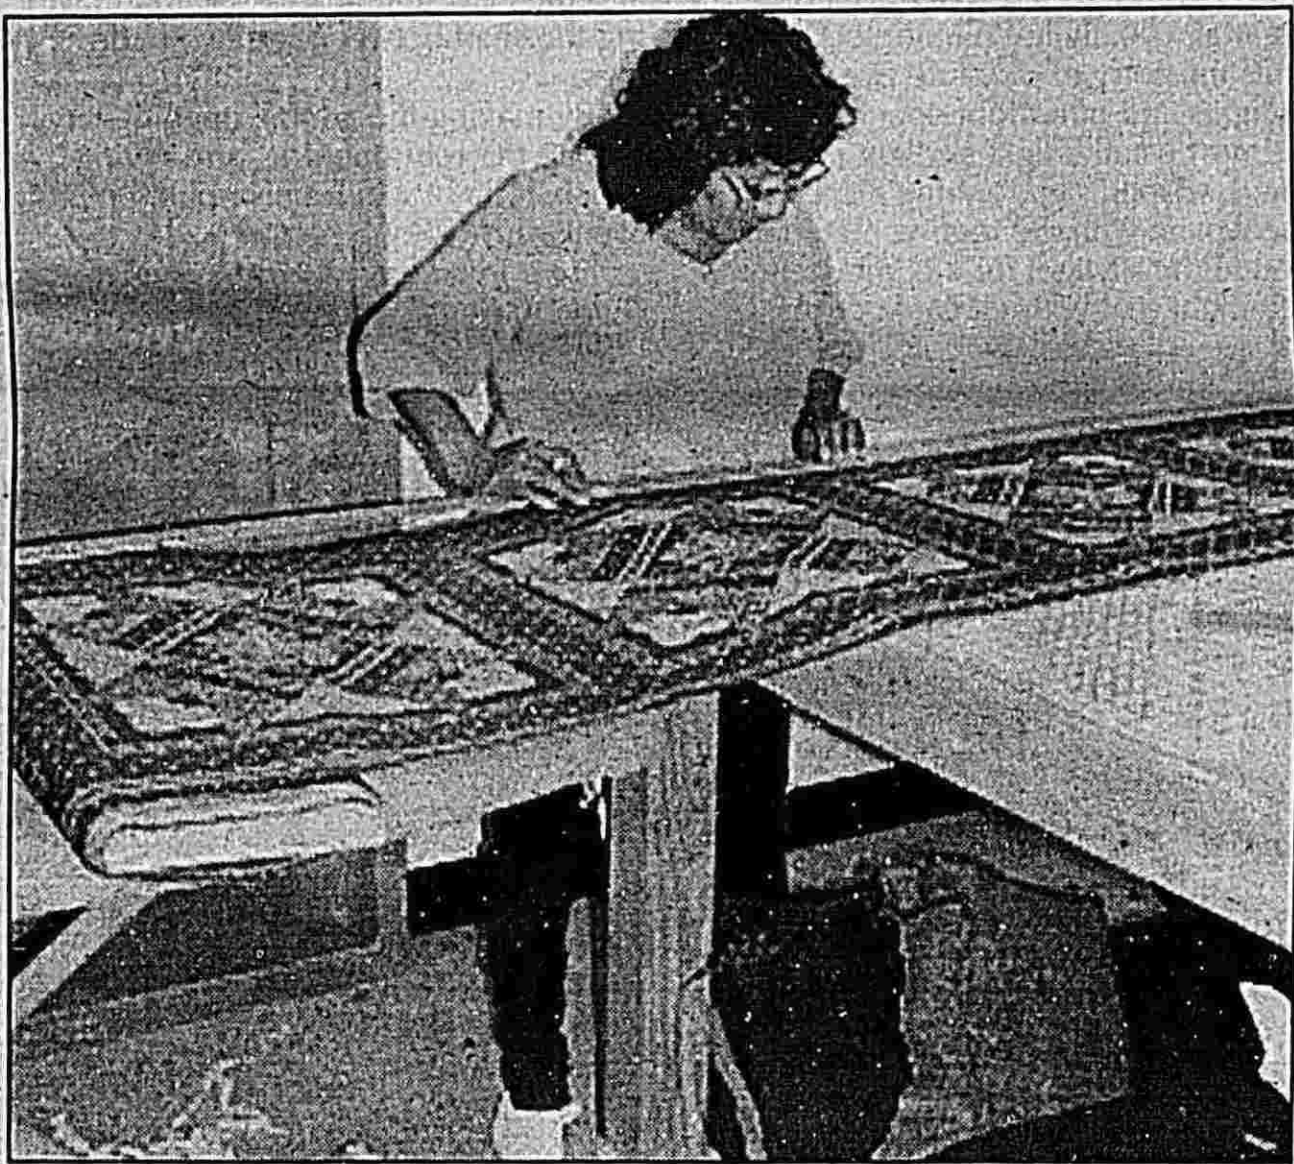

Lambert also designed and handcrafted specialty quilts and throw pillows that are individually signed and produced in Mundelein. Her wildlife series has been used exclusively by companies such as Ducks Unlimited and the items are often the top prizes in fundraising auctions. She has just completed a quilt for the Blue Marlins Association which will be their featured fundraising auction item.

Lambert said the opening of Cherished Dreams in Gurnee Mills Sept. 13 will help to provide the company with a client base to test market future designs and products.

"The store will give us a good sampling of people," Lambert said. "Thirty percent of the traffic is local and 70 percent from outside of Lake County so it will be a good cross cut of people."

Cherished Dream is located is store 507 at Gurnee Mills next to the Kids' Gap. Hours will coincide with mall hours.

Create light, bright interiors with weathertight skylights

Skylights allow beautiful views of the sun, moon and stars while preserving privacy.

Imagine a sunroom filled with daylight and cool breezes. A sunny, spacious kitchen in which cooking is a pleasure rather than a chore. Or a quiet, sunny nook under the roof which offers a retreat to read or simply hide away from everyday concerns.

Daylight is the essential element that transforms conventional rooms into resplendent spaces that add to the value and quality of every home regardless of size, style or location.

And how can you dramatically, yet affordably, transform your home with sunlight? Weathertight, energy efficient skylights. Today's manufacturers offer leakproof skylights that let the best of the outdoors in and insure indoor comfort and protection even with extreme weather conditions.

"Abundant natural light can do wonders in accentuating a home's interior, furnishings and architecture," says Gary Hyman, marketing manager for Velux-America Inc., a leading manufacturer of roof windows and skylights. "Light and outdoor view can make a small space appear larger, draw attention to a special location, and create an open, spacious atmosphere for any style home."

Skylights are the perfect choice for capturing sunlight and outdoor views because by their very design they open a home to much more light than do vertical windows and doors. In addition, skylights allow beautiful clear views of the sun, moon and stars while also preserving privacy. Ventilating skylights also add to comfort and proper moisture balance in a home by allowing fresh air to circulate and releasing the warm, moist air generated during cooking and bathing.

The key to complete skylight enjoyment is a watertight installation that's durable regardless of weather conditions. Flashing is the waterproofing material, usually aluminum, that prevents the entry of moisture from around skylights and other roof openings. For the most weathertight skylight installation, L-shaped step flashing pieces are interwoven with the roofing material around the skylight for a completely watertight seal without caulk or mastics.

Insulated glass skylights offer a number of practical and aesthetic benefits that other materials just can't match. Not only do glass skylights provide an undistorted, clear view to the outdoors, they also feature a low exterior profile that does not interfere with the roofline. Available with Low-E coatings and laminates, insulated glass also offers excellent energy efficiency for comfort in any climate.

Unlike plastic-based bubble skylights which react to ultraviolet light by clouding and hazing, glass skylights do not react to the sun's rays thus preserving a perfectly clear view.

Even if there is a ceiling and attic space between the room and the blue sky beyond, a skylight can still bring in light and ventilation with the simple construction of a skylight shaft.

Basically, this includes cutting the roof opening for the skylight, cutting a larger opening in the ceiling below, and then framing, insulating and finishing the shaft between the two openings.

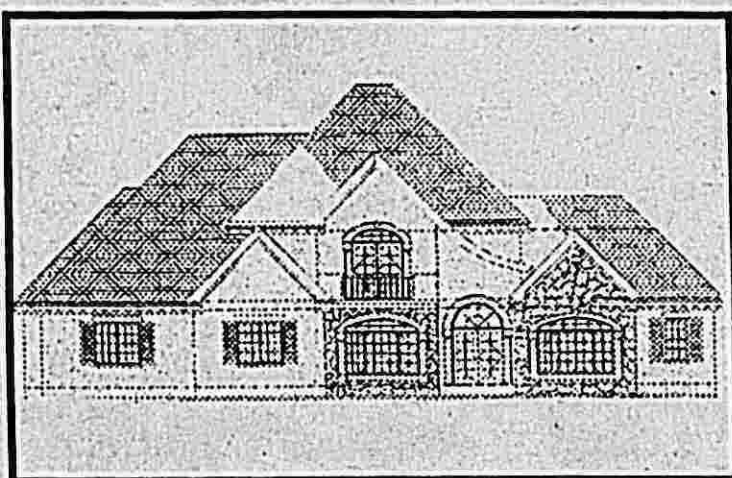

By making the ceiling opening larger than the roof opening, and flaring the shaft, light will be distributed more evenly throughout the room.

Mantle madness curable with right art

If you are decorating around a fireplace, remember that is the focal point and you want the items you are going to hang or place on the mantle to be married with the character of the fireplace. For example, if you have a rough-hewn stone fireplace you will probably not hang gilt-edged pictures above it. However, if you want to change the character of a room from informal to formal, you can try painting the fireplace, usually a neutral color, to update its look.

Most people use a picture as part of the mantle door. Start by propping a painting on the mantelpiece, along with any other objects you intend to place there. Now back off. Are the colors right for your room? Do the heights and proportions balance well? Is the painting just a little too small? One possibility is to add some prints or other accessories to the grouping. Is it too large? Then this is not the place for that particular painting. If your room is formal, a symmetrical arrangement is appropriate. Place your picture in the center, with a pair of sculptures, candlesticks or other objects d'art on either side. If you prefer asymmetrical arrangements, place the picture off-center, balanced by a tall object or groups of objects clustered together, or use multiple, smaller pictures.

Ideas for accessories include candlesticks, sculptures, floral arrangements, plants, or even unique ideas like birdhouse or something that relates to a hobby. Books are accessories too. Books are one of the ways of lending a warm and lived-in look to a room.

As you place your objects, try several combinations, rearranging and changing objects until you get the effect you want.

Mantle madness can be cured with the right art, accessories, and balance.—by MARY LEBEN, Decorating Den, Grayslake and Gurnee. For decorating questions, call Leben at 662-6612.

Lake County's parade of fall colors to begin soon

With cooler weather here as well as shorter days, we will now begin to view the fall coloring of many plants. The first tree that comes to mind is the Sugar Maple. A slow grower in youth with an upright, oval to rounded shape. Its leaf color in the summer is a medium to dark green with a wide variety of colors in the fall. I've observed yellow, burnt orange and even some tinge of red in these plant leaves.

The Red Maples are generally the first tree to begin the parade of fall colors. Be careful to select certain cultivars like Red Sunset, Red Maple, or October Glory. Red Maple to ensure a consistent fall coloring year after year.

If you're a fan of purple, two beautiful plants that are quite hardy for the Lake County growing area come to mind. The Autumn Purple, White Ash, and the increasingly popular Chanticleer Pear.

The Autumn Purple Whit Ash has a pyramidal, rounded outline as it matures. Its leaves are a deep green with a great reddish-purple fall color. The color can hold for two to four weeks.

The Chanticleer Pear has a fine, upright pyramidal form. It flowers beautifully each spring with white flowers covering the tree. A glossy leaf adds summer interest, while its leaves turn a reddish-purple and are among the last leaves to turn color each fall.—by MIKE GRECO, landscape architect, owner of Mill Creek Nursery, Inc., Wadsworth. ## Household Tips

Caring family

An elderly mother was confined to her bed for six weeks. During this time, she had to be moved from side to side for better circulation. One of the handiest ideas came from a part-time nurse who helped twice a week.

Take a twin flat sheet and fold it lengthwise, then lay it across the center of the mattress and tuck the ends into each side. When the patient needs to be moved, station someone on the other side, untuck one side, and roll the patient carefully to the opposite side toward the second person. This works to prevent the patient from accidentally rolling out of bed onto the floor.

Kitchen drawer

Home or apartment kitchens with limited counter space can benefit from this tip. In order to make more space, when cooking for company, open a top drawer and put a cookie sheet over the top, then close it so the tray fits tightly.

Every inch of counter space matters, and this will give you a little more room that is sorely needed.

Miracle filters

Next time you are at a rummage sale and see coffee filters, get them, even though you do not drink coffee! This lowly and inexpensive (fluted) filter has a multiple of uses. For instance, use a flattened filter as a dish cover in the microwave to absorb spills and spatters. Place small mugs or small bowls inside a filter to catch anything that bubbles over. Use between fine china too (especially handy between cups and bowls).

Flatten a filter and fold in half for an absorbent holder when serving tacos or sloppy joes. Place a filter in the bottom of a flowerpot before adding soil. It keeps dirt from washing through the drainage holes after watering. Use a filter to apply shoe polish, then throw away.

Now is time to turn backyard into a bird haven

Although the change in weather has little effect on most of us humans, the approaching cooler weather can be rough on our backyard birds.

An often dramatic decrease in the supply of natural foods and fewer daylight hours make it difficult for birds to find sources of food. We need not worry though, for we can help out our feathered friends and benefit at the same time by providing them with food and partaking in the entertaining and relaxing hobby of bird watching.

Bird feeders

Fall is the best time to start feeding birds, because they have yet to settle down in their winter territories and have not fixed their habits of searching for food. If you set up a bird feeder in early autumn and keep it filled with food you can attract many wintering birds that will become accustomed to visiting before cold weather actually begins. Then, as the fall turns into winter, those birds will usually elect to remain where they know there's an ample supply of tasty, accessible food. Though generally not difficult to make from scratch or assemble from a kit, even a simple bird feeder can be a time-consuming project. Ornate, pre-assembled and large-scale bird feeders can be bought, but they are costly and more likely to be used by longtime bird watchers.

An easier, less expensive option is to purchase a ready-to-use, prefilled, plastic bird feeder from a nearby garden center or hardware store. The ready-to-use feeders come with a well-balanced, nutritious selection of bird food, including fifty percent black oil seed, sunflower seeds, millet and milo, so that it lures the widest variety of song birds.

Once you've assembled or purchased a bird feeder, scout your yard for the best locations for hanging it. Keep in mind that a feeder should be hung in areas that are out of reach for squirrels, mice and cats. The feeder should also be placed in areas of abundant natural shelter, such as trees and hedges.

This is especially important in the fall and winter months for the shrubbery serves as protection against the cold winds and snowstorms of the seasons.

Bird baths

After you have the feeder in place, you may want to consider setting up a bird bath in your yard. This will serve as an additional attraction for bird visitors, providing them with a place to stop for a quick drink or to clean their feathers. One thing to remember while maintaining a bird bath during the fall and winter months is that it must be kept thawed.

One way to do this is by adding hot water to the bath every so often. If you set up your bird bath on a window shelf, you won't need to venture out in unbearably cold weather. Although this method will suffice, a more convenient, and relatively inexpensive way to keep the bath thawed is by investing in a waterproof electrical heater.

This is a good choice because it keeps water at a certain, even temperature. This is a good choice because it keeps water at a certain, even temperature. These heaters can be purchased at aquarium supply stores for about $10.

Bird haven

Now that you have turned your yard into a bird haven for the upcoming seasons, sit back, relax and watch for the many wintering birds that will visit your family's yard.

The average garden attracts approximately fifteen species, but the number varies, depending on where you live. Common winter visitors include cardinals, jays, mockingbirds, chickadees, nuthatches and mourning doves.

Ideal time for lawn work is here

Early fall is an optimum time for lawn care in Lake County. This would include just about all activities, including seeding, renovating, and fertilizing.

When putting in a new lawn, now is the ideal time for seeding. Start the process by eliminating any perennial weed problems existing on the site. These may be dug by hand, but it is critical to remove the entire plant. Another option use a nonselective herbicide, such as glyphosate, sold as Roundup or Kleenup. Once the weeds are dead, the area can be worked up and seeded. Glyphosate doesn't leave a soil residue that would harm seedlings.

A second very important step in the process is to thoroughly work the soil before seeding or sodding. Improve poor soils by adding organic material, such as compost, peat, rotted manure, etc. Six inches or more of well prepared soil is suggested. Taking shortcuts when establishing a lawn usually comes back to haunt the lawn later in the form of assorted problems.

Weakened or thin lawns benefit from overseeding now. Using a slit-seeder is an excellent way to do this. Slit seeders cut through existing turf and place grass seed in contact with the soil, which helps assure good germination. Check local rental agencies for this machine or landscaping companies may be available for hire.

September is an excellent time to deal with thatch problems. Dethatchers are available to tear out thatch, which usually requires some overseeding afterwards. Another option is to aerify the turf, preferably using a core aerator, which pulls up cores of soil and thatch to the surface. This helps solve the causes of the thatch buildup in addition to helping control existing thatch.

September is also an ideal time to fertilize. Begin by choosing quality lawn fertilizers containing slow-release nitrogen. Read the fine print on the bag and look for terms such as slow-release, controlled release, water insoluble nitrogen (WIN), etc. These may cost more, but consider the extra money well spent. Apply on to one-and-one-half pounds of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet to the lawn in early September. The higher rate would be suggested for slow-release nitrogen fertilizers only.

Attention late bloomers.

It's time for the fall color of garden mums. These hardy bloomers are one of the easiest to grow. And they display enough color to make those turning tree leaves envious. The garden mum has been called "America's Most Popular Perennial" — and with good reason. With the proper care and a bit of help from Mother Nature, garden mums have the potential to bloom again and again every autumn.

So if you need a good excuse to get outdoors this fall, grab an armload of our spectacular garden mums, available now at Leiders Garden Greenery.

A loaf of bread, a bottle of wine, and a good dog

Some of you may remember that several weeks back, I discussed our family's decision to adopt a new member. One with four legs.

Well, I am happy to inform you that, through a little investigating, patience and luck, I now am the proud owner of what has turned out to be a remarkably good dog. Her name is Foxy, she's three years old, and we adopted her through the Lakeshore Corgi Rescue Society. She is actually half Pembroke Welsh Corgi and half Shetland Sheepdog (we think), and com-combines the best features of both breeds in appearance and temperament.

How good is she? Foxy has such good manners, she wipes her own paws before coming inside. She's so well-trained, she makes Lassie look like an obedience school dropout. And she's so well-behaved that I'm praying some of it will rub off on the kids.

My friend Lorrie, who walks in the morning with Foxy and me, wanted to know if Foxy was real. "Are you sure there aren't little machine gears inside her? She's too good to be true!"

I have to agree with her. I feel very, very lucky.

You may have heard the saying, "A good man is hard to find." Well, the same can be said of dogs, which is why I feel so lucky to have Foxy. Not that I'm exactly comparing dogs to men, although there are similarities when you think about it. Or at least there are when I think about it.

For example, we tend to want a dog for many of the same reasons we want a man - companionship, affection and loyalty. OK, I admit there are a few differences, such as you wouldn't necessarily be looking for a dog who's a good dancer, but for the most part the similarities are there.

In fact, if I didn't already have a good man, I would have a difficult time deciding which one to have in my life - a good man or a especially if your feet smell after wearing those cheap vinyl shoes on a hot day

Advantages to owning a good man

1. Brings home the bacon instead of just eating it
2. Refrains from drooling, even when watching a Cindy Crawford commercial
3. Doesn't kiss you after drinking from the toilet
4. Won't run away from home every time a cute little squirrel runs past
5. Barks only at the children
6. Does not do the "leg dance" on company

It's a tough call, isn't it? You might want to consider just flipping a coin. "Heads, it's a man, tails..."

good dog. Both can provide a great deal of happiness and support. (Let me pause here for a moment to state, once again, that I do have a good man, especially since he reads this column.) And I know there are probably a few readers out there who, at this very moment have neither, and are thinking to themselves, "Dog? Or man? Hmmm..."

Therefore, I am pleased to aid you in your decision by providing you with this handy list below that breaks down the advantages to be gained in choosing either one:

Advantages to owning a good dog

1. Has no desire to obtain control of the remote
2. Does not shave and leave irritating little hairs in the sink.
3. Doesn't leave the toilet seat up when he drinks
4. Eats food out of a can and begs for more.
5. Thinks you look wonderful in a ratty bathrobe with curlers in your hair and a mud pack on your face
6. Worships at your feet -

Movie Pick 'Grill'- something special simmers

Every once in a while we come across a special motion picture, one with the unlikely name of "The Spitfire Grill," is one of these. "The Man in the Moon," and "Somewhere in Time," were two such films.

Actually this movie has not been officially released in wide distribution yet. That will come almost as you read this review. We were lucky enough to come across "The Spitfire Grill" at a special sneak preview over the weekend.

Just as the Democrats have adopted the family values campaign of George Bush and Dan Quayle, a movie with these same family values bursts quietly on the movie scene.

Hopefully enough non-cynical moviegoers get to see the picture.

Directed by TV scriptwriter, Lee David Zlotoff, who is also the writer in the case of "Grill," brings the old fashioned human interest touches of Leo McCarey and Frank Capra to this story about a woman who feels that she has lost a huge hunk of her heart and she looks to find it again in a small town, where much of the morale is even lower than hers.

The name of Ellen Burstyn, has become synonymous with great performances and she delivers another one in "Spitfire," as she plays the depressed owner of a New England restaurant, a crab with a heart of gold. Waifish Alison Elliott steals the picture as the ex-jailbird out to improve herself and everyone around her.

This is a tearjerker that many will call a "chick flick," yet most, probably many of the men in the audience, will be having "hay fever" attacks, as Elliott leads the Maine village into looking for the rainbow.

Marcia Gay Harden comes along for this enjoyable ride as she plays Burstyn's rather witless relative.

This time, instead of the Rooney-Garland solution of "lets have a show," raffling the restaurant off in an essay contest attempts to save the proverbial day. The positive message of love found in this film seemed important enough to an order of Catholic priests who commission its low budget filming.

"Spitfire," mostly because of Burstyn and Elliott, manages to be sweet with being saccharin.

We give it five out of five stars for being a very very special movie, one the entire family can see together. Rated PG-13.—by GLORIA DAVIS

Era of 'I can't' should end as soon as possible

Dr. Sherri Singer

You know, it's funny! With all the kids that are having trouble these days, I have yet to meet the kid who, when given the right conditions, doesn't strive to be as successful as possible. In my office each week, I see an endless parade of kids who come in with several words on their lips: "I can't...I have..."(take your pick here—ADD, LD behavior problems, etc.).

Kids today seem to be very savvy at diagnosing themselves with all of these and more. With all the popular press about

Attention Deficit Disorder and learning disabilities and all the focus on how people cannot do things because of these, many of our children have gotten the message loud and clear!

So, why am I mentioning this? It's really very simple. I love watching kids be successful and know that I have seen every one of them that I work with get there (and I have seen some that you wouldn't think could.) I am convinced that each and every kid can and will do well if allowed the conditions to do it.

Quite bluntly, we need to educate our kids on the way to be successful instead of the reasons they are not. Kids listen very intensely. You'd be amazed at what they pick up that is said about them and then act that very thing out.

Please don't get me wrong. I don't believe that we should ignore the problems our kids are having. Quite the opposite. We should figure out what the problem is, quickly attend to it and make sure the child looks at it as something to strive for success in spite of, instead of a ready made excuse. There is no feeling in the world like showing a child who is convinced that he or she cannot do something due to a problem like ADD or LD, that really, he or she can do anything at all with the right conditions. We should all strive for the era of, "I can't" to end as soon as possible.

home. Do you have any suggestions about how to get the school behavior to stop happening? The school is really getting upset and I'm afraid my child will end up in a behavior classroom. C.G.

Dear C.G.,

First, thanks for being my first letter! In most cases I have seen, when kids act out in school, there can be several reasons. First, I'd highly suggest that you get the child evaluated for disorders like ADD and LD, to make sure that these are not effecting the child and causing frustration and acting out.

The idea here in evaluating, is not to provide an excuse for behavior, but rather to get these things identified as quickly as possible to treat them and then be able to hold the child responsible for behavior and ultimately see improvement.

I would suggest doing it privately so that testing is thorough and it happens very quickly since you want this problem attended to as soon as possible so your child can have as much of the school year as possible to do well. If disorders like these are found, treat it quickly and get on to the behavioral corrections I'll describe in a minute.

If all is ruled out by testing, and behavior continues, at that point it is most likely because your child feels he can get away with this, or is getting some sort of attention from it. If it's purely behavioral, I will give you some suggestions by telling you about another 9 year old boy I worked with who also had behavioral problems in school. He was completely out of control in the class and was yelling out words out of the blue. People thought he had a disorder called, "Tourette's Syndrome," due to this calling out of senseless words. He would never listen or follow directions. The parents came in to see me and we set up a behavior program in which there were rules that needed to be followed both at home and in school. When these rules were violated, he would lose privileges at home, right after school. Consequences were immediate and always consistent.

Luckily, he had a fantastic teacher who was very cooperative with sending home a rule checklist that this boys' parents had made. The checklist had the rules on it, plus a space for "All Rules Followed." The teacher gave everyday feedback to the parents and the parents responded by making sure that privileges that were important to the child were lost with bad behavior and earned with good behavior. Of course, when it first began, it was tough, but after only a few weeks, this boys behavior improved 100 percent. There were no behavior problems anymore.

It may sound tough to some, but the reality is, we all have to follow rules to get our privileges too. If we drive too fast, we may lose our driving privilege. If we don't show up to work, we may lose our working privilege, and thus all of our other privileges. We are raising our kids to live in the same world of expectations we do. To me, it makes more sense to be tough when they are young and have them learn it in the safety of your home rather than the world. Be sure if you are going to attend to this behavior that you are consistent. Also, if it feels out of control to you or you feel that you are not getting where you'd like to, I'd highly recommend that you seek out some professional help with this so that it gets under control quickly.

The faster these situations get under control, the better it is for the child. Less time lost! Good luck to you and your son!

HOROSCOPE

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Early in the week, someone close to you proves to be a source of inspiration. Social plans center around family and children, but be sure all your work is done before indulging. You're upset this weekend with an in-law.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) This is a good week to get in touch with others with whom you've been discussing business. Agreements can easily be reached and compromises made. Where spending is concerned, particularly over the weekend, caution is the key word.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Someone you haven't heard from in a while gets in touch with you this week. You need to exercise patience when it comes to a career concern. In romance, you're receiving mixed signals and aren't quite sure where you stand. Clear the air this weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) While off on your own early in the week, you receive new inspirations concerning your career. A friend proves to be a minor source of irritation later in the week. The weekend is a good time to listen to your body and get some rest.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Your enthusiasm for getting out and about is muted somewhat by a work concern which needs your attention. Later in the week, you're taken by surprise by financial news which comes your way. This weekend, stick close to home and tend to domestic chores.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Information you uncover is very valuable concerning an investment or career matter. It's best to reconsider those travel plans you made a while ago, especially in light of budget concerns.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) While romance is favored this week, you're on unsure footing when it comes to a certain friend. Later in the week, entertaining at home proves to be more trouble than it's worth.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You know just where to be to get things done this week. Your instincts are good and you should go with what you feel. The weekend favors getting in touch with those people you've been neglecting or who live far away.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You are positively inspired early in the week and come up with new work ideas. Later, you put the final touches on a career project which has been hounding you for some time.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Look into that new course of study you've been considering. It could open up new avenues of opportunity for you if pursued. In general, self-improvement is on your mind now.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You're not satisfied with your home surroundings and could consider redecorating, provided your budget can accommodate this. Your best ally in business this week is your original thinking.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A project you thought was dead suddenly comes to the fore this week. What happens by surprise is ultimately to your benefit, even though you're initially caught off-guard.

Introducing Metra's North Central Service.

Metra's new North Central Service is big news for residents in Lake and northern Cook counties. Initial train service consists of four weekday inbound and outbound trains serving ten communities between Antioch and Chicago's Union Station plus a transfer stop at O'Hare International Airport, Remote Parking Lot F.

The North Central Service is ideal for customers who travel to downtown Chicago during regular business hours. For customers with only morning business, an early afternoon train departure is also available. To ensure service flexibility during midday and evening hours, Pace provides supplemental bus service that links stations along the North Central Service with three other Metra rail lines.

Relationship Center helps individuals find solutions

Lake County residents now have someone new to turn to as they struggle with life's challenges. Neil O'Donnell, PhD, a licensed clinical psychologist, has opened The Relationship Center to help individuals, couples, and families reach their goals and find practical solutions to their problems.

Dr. O'Donnell, who has been treating individuals, couples and families for more than 10 years, says The Relationship Center offers several services that set it apart from other practices in the area. "People have a lot of questions when they're thinking about seeing a therapist. They want to know whether they really need therapy, how much it will cost, how it will work, how long it will take, and what kind of changes they can expect."

To help people answer the questions,

The Relationship Center offers free initial visits to all of its clients. At the end of these visits, says Dr. O'Donnell, potential clients receive individualized treatment plans and all the answers they need to help them decide whether or not to start therapy.

In addition, The Relationship Center offers flexible hours and variable rates. "Clients need to fit therapy into busy schedules and tight budgets, so we try to make it as easy as possible for every client to get into therapy and stay in until they have reached their goals."

'Clients need to fit therapy into busy schedules and tight budgets, so we try to make it as easy as possible for every client.'

 licensed clinical psychologist

Dr. O'Donnell, a Gurnee native who attended Woodland Junior High School and Warren Twp. High School, is often asked why the practice is called The Relationship Center when it deals with such a wide variety of problems.

"Nearly all of the problems that people bring in," answers Dr. O'Donnell, "stem from difficulties they are having in one relationship or another. Sometimes the relationship is with another family member, like a husband or wife, partner, child, or parent, and sometimes it is with someone outside of the family, like a boss, co-worker, boyfriend or girlfriend, or child's teacher or school." It can even be the case, says Dr. O'Donnell, that potential clients are most unhappy with their relationship with themselves. "We are sometimes our own worst critics, and find it hard to meet our own goals and expectations. When this happens, we can become depressed and anxious, and can feel 'stuck.' It is often helpful to have someone to talk to during these times."

The Relationship Center offers comprehensive psychological services, including individual, couple, and family therapy, as well as psychological testing, marital preparation classes, and marital enhancement training.

The Relationship Center, which is located in Grayslake, can be reached at 548-5678.

Businesses join forces to preserve history

MICHAEL H. BABICZ

A group of Lake County businessmen is joining forces to help preserve a part of United States history. Five area businesses have come together to work on a project to reconstruct the traveling Vietnam War Memorial Wall.

The project, originally put together under the request of Stanley M. Adler Sr. of Lake County Vetz which has a wall of its own, has drawn attention from Jan Craig Scruggs, founder of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund and originator of the idea for the actual wall in Washington, D.C.

"It was an idea which I had in college," said Scruggs of the original spark behind the construction of the actual wall in Washington.

Scruggs and Monica Worth, a contracted public relations director for Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund, flew in from Washington to see the Lake County $100,000.00-plus restoration project in action.

Having been wounded and decorated for gallantry while serving in the U.S. Army 199th Light Infantry Brigade in Vietnam, Scruggs came up with the idea for The Wall while doing his graduate school research on Vietnam veterans. Beginning with $2,800 of his own money in 1979, Scruggs' dream became a reality with the $8 million Wall being dedicated in November, 1982. Since then, it has become the most visited of all memorials in the nation's capitol with over 2-1/2 million visitors per year.

"We've taken part in a number of educational projects," Scruggs explained. "The traveling Walls part of the program allows the ability to bring the legacy and history of the Vietnam War to many parts of the United States."

"Many people don't have the resources to get to Washington," explained Worth. "This helps us to be able to bring it to their own hometowns."

The connection with Lake County has grown out of Lake County Vetz desire to come up with a way to raise funds for homeless veterans projects. Adler said his organization sees the Wall as its "most functional program" because of its dual purpose of educating the public and raising funds to help those veterans less fortunate.

The local "Wall" was dedicated Memorial Day, 1995, and makes approximately 20 appearances during a year. The funds for the restoration project come entirely through contributions from the general public along with private and corporate donors.

The Lake County version of the Wall is one of five traveling throughout the nation, but is the only one directly connected to the Vietnam War Memorial Fund.

Lake County businessmen working on the project, the refurbished wall will be put together in a very technically advanced way resulting in "a more sturdy and durable wall," stressed Adler. The interest in the Wall is reflected in its being booked months ahead.

Wall

England; Puerto Rico and Samoa, Guam.

In addition to the Wall itself, the Vietnam War Memorial Fund offers teachers a series of books and other educational materials. Everything from basic lesson plans, creative writing assignments to numerous options for either class or individual lessons are available.

A series of endorsed songs to hear and films may also be obtained. Included is a book entitled "Why Vietnam Still Matters...The War And The Wall," which includes a series of interviews with Vietnam Veterans, as well as excerpts from President Jimmy Carter, President Ronald Reagan, Vice President Al Gore, General Colin Powell and Maya Ying Lin who originally designed the Wall for an architectural class. The book, compiled by Scruggs, was published earlier this year.

"We are basically redesigning and constructing the framework for the wall," said Tony Deieso, who works with his father, Dan, at the 8-year-old IMS (Industrial Machine Service) in Wadsworth.

"We took a look at what they were using and decided there was a large area for improvement," said the younger Deieso. "After putting some ideas together, we talked with Richie (Krotowski) and came up with the plans."

From the engineering plans designed and compiled by the Deiesos along with the machining, investing over 100 man-hours, the expectation is for the Wall sections to be a lot easier to assemble and tear down, and last longer. When put together, the replica Wall will resemble very closely the actual wall.

From Deiesos, the next step is at Kay's Fabricating and Welding, a shop located just off Martin Luther King Jr. Dr. and Green Bay Rd. in North Chicago. Another business with a family background, Richie Krotowski has run the shop for the past 18 months after working with his father, Joe, for over 20 years.

Using aluminum due to its being light-weight, but still strong, the new frames are geared to help make it easier for those responsible for transporting and constructing the display at its various locations.

"It's going to be a very quality looking piece," said Richie Krotowski, noting the biggest project in his work history has already entailed over 80 hours of welding, fitting and cutting the frames and support legs.

"The welding technique used is the same as those used on race car frames and airplanes," explained Deieso, referring to the Heliarc-Tig welds. "It's a very unique project with everybody more than happy to jump aboard and help out."

"Everybody is doing their own facet, but still working together to make sure things happy in a timely manner so that we can meet deadlines," said R. Krotowski. The panels, each "jig built" to maintain that they are consistently true, are prefit, drilled and tapped before being sent to another stop in their journey into becoming history.

Over 800 holes have been drilled at Kay's, with the aluminum panels having been shear-cut by Danny Darnell of D-N Welding in Park City. The plates receive surface preparation and a Morton Polyester Mirror Black powder coating finish at J&J Powder Coating in Zion.

"It's an outdoor, durable finish which will withstand the ultra-violet light from the sun," explained Joe Kristan, owner of J&J Powder Coating, noting a lot of investigation by the refurbishing team has looked at almost anything which would cause it to decay. The powder coating of the frames is taking in the neighborhood of 100 hours. Each frame is washed by hand with a conversion coating, dried in an oven, sprayed with the black powder substance and baked out to its durable finish.

From there, the panels move to American Laser Mark, a four-year-old Zion business, has one of the most painstaking and emotional parts of the process, the actual engraving of the 58,202 names on the plate sections. Using a custom-built laser engraver work station because of the enormous physical size of the Wall, a data base computer which is available to the public to help in locating names, acts as the guide for the placement of the names on the panels which will take an estimated 240 hours before completion.

"It's been kind of emotional at times because some of the veterans have stoped in while we've been engraving the names, and even if they don't know anyone, seeing the massive list of names definitely has an impact on them," said Dean Dubois, co-owner of Laser Mark, which was contacted by Lake County Vetz to become involved.

Ironically, with over 600 man-hours invested, only one man who is involved in the project, Dale Franks, co-owner of Laser Mark, has actually been to Washington and seen the original Wall.

"One thing I've heard is that a lot of veterans have been to Washington, but haven't had the strength to go to the real Wall," said Dubois.

"When one the traveling Wall comes to town, they find it more approachable." "I was awestruck when I was looking at the Wall while it was displayed in Gurnee during Gurnee Days," admitted Krotowski, adding he actually saw people rubbing paper tracings of names on the Wall.

"You don't realize the history and sentimental value of The Wall," said Deieso "The emotion really grabs you," continued Deieso

Upon its completion, the first restored wall is expected to begin its tour somewhere in the southern part of the United States sometime this fall.

Asking enough questions will lead to right answers

Do you read this column every week? Do you read it for entertainment or information? What other columns do you read regularly? What types of columns have helped you the most in your business, career or personal life? How might I improve this column? Are you 50 years of age or older?

Asking your customers questions is a great way to learn more about them, and how you can better serve their needs. Most small-business owners—myself included—are guilty of not asking enough questions. At least we're guilty of not asking the right questions.

What are the right questions? How can you ask them without offending anyone? Of whom do you ask these questions? Well, those are good questions.

Actually the first question you should ask yourself is: What do we want to know? You see, the beginning of good research is to first determine what information is valuable to you in making good decisions in your business.

After you determine what you need to know, you can begin to zero-in on possible sources for your answers.

Then you should consider ways of getting the information without irritating anyone. Most people enjoy talking about themselves.

Therefore, as long as you don't get too personal they will answer most of your questions.

Types of questions

There are three major types of questions you can use to gather information: open-ended and thinking questions. Each type of question has specific advantages in trying to solicit answers.

You can use the closed-ended question to obtain specific information. Yes or no answers are common, as are specific details. "Were you born in Texas?" and "Where were you born?" are both closed-ended questions. The first is structured to generate a yes or no answer, the second to reveal a specific location.

You can use closed-ended questions to qualify prospects or potential customers. "Do you plan to buy a car in the next six months?" and "Do you own your own home?" are examples.

You can use the open-ended question to involve the person being questioned in the conversation. The purpose is to allow questioner to get additional feedback, opinions and information.

If you want your customer to participate in the creation of ideas, defining problems or analyzing your service, open-ended questions will help. Listen carefully when you ask this type of question, because you may get valuable information to help you grow your business.

The third type of question is the thinking question. Thinking questions require the person you're questioning to consider options, analyze different issues or expose underlying motivations.

You should not ask thinking questions unless you have built a solid relationship and established trust with your customer. Thinking questions are usually more personal and intimate. You must earn the right to ask them.

Good starter questions

At this point I'm going to assume that you have already built a good working relationship with your better customers. You have qualified them as being valuable to your future growth and profit, and you have earned their trust. Here are some good questions for building your business.

- What do you enjoy most about doing business with us?
- What could we do to serve you more effectively?
- If you could change anything about our business, what would it be?
- If we were to extend or change our hours, when would you like us to be open?
- Are there products or services you wish you could buy from us that we currently don't carry?
- Is there anything you would like me to know about you, that might help us serve you better?

Associates join program to help save children's sight

The doctors and staff of Lossman Eye Care Associates located at 1237 S. Rand Rd. in Lake Zurich will participate in a program this fall to help prevent blindness in children.

More than one in four school-age children have a vision problem. Among preschoolers, more than one in 20 have a vision problem that can cause permanent sight loss if left untreated.

Eye care professionals at Lossman Eye Care Associates are joining their peers in more than 2,000 locations nationwide in a special campaign called "I'm Helping Give Children Their Vision for Life."

Now through October 15, Lossman Eye Care Associates will raise community awareness about children's eye health problems and help provide funds for sight-saving programs sponsored by Prevent Blindness America and the American Optometric Association (AOA).

Prevent Blindness America is the nation's oldest and largest non-profit organization dedicated to preventing blindness and preserving sight.

The organization notes that one of the most urgent needs in children's eye health is testing for amblyopia, also known as "lazy eye."

Amblyopia can lead to permanent visual impairment, but if detected and treated in time, it can often be corrected. This disorder tends to develop between the ages of 3 and 5, the preschool years, yet many children do not undergo eye examinations or vision screening until they begin school.

Prevent Blindness America recommends complete eye examinations for children shortly after birth, again at six months of age and sometime between the ages of three and five, then periodically throughout the school years.

The "Vision for Life" campaign asks patients to support children's visual health by donating $1 to Prevent Blindness America and the AOA. Donors then sign a colorful mobile which is prominently displayed in the office, drawing attention to the cause of fighting blindness in children.

Through its national office and nationwide network of affiliates and divisions, Prevent Blindness America provides screening for more than 500,000 children annually.

The group also maintains a toll-free hotline, 1-800-331-2020, through which callers can obtain free brochures on eye health and safety for both children and adults.

The "Vision for Life" campaign also benefits the AOA's VISION USA program. Through VISION USA, a non-profit program, AOA-member optometrists provide free eye examinations to low-income workers and their families who do not have health insurance.

DR. FRED A. BAUGHMAN, JR. MD

Patients trust we physicians to make them better. They trust us to make their children better.

They don't often know about risk/benefit ratios or the critical questions to ask to assure their safety in our hands. Few think of the possibility, always present, that they might be the worse off for what we do in the name of therapy.

They trust, put themselves in our hands and imagine nothing but that they will be better off for seeing us and having treatment—whatever the treatment. That they might be worse off for it, even dead, never crosses their mind.

We physicians have lots of information that we keep to ourselves. How many parents, for example, know or have been told by their child's psychiatrist, neurologist or pediatrician that medications commonly prescribed for attention deficit disorder with or without hyperactivity (ADHD), the so-called tricyclic antidepressants, desipramine in particular, caused the sudden death of three children as of 1990 and two more between that time and the present—a total of five deaths, due to drug therapy for behavioral disorders. Yes, behavioral disorders.

Why do I stress behavioral disorders? Why? Because ADHD, for all the misrepresentations that it is a real disease "like diabetes" or "like a brain tumor" is nothing more than a list of behaviors found in entirely normal, troubled, troublesome, miseducated, undisciplined children.

Invented in-committee by the American Psychiatric Assn. in 1980 (ADD) and revised (ADHD) in 1987, ADHD by whatever name, has never been found to have an identifying, validating, physical or chemical abnormality.

In other words, ADHD is not an actual disease or anything biological or organic whatsoever and psychiatrists or physicians or any sort who say it is are guilty, in a legal sense, of flawed disclosure and informed consent.

Why quibble? It is not quibbling, it is not merely semantics. Let us go back to the primary duty of the physician, psychiatrists as well, if they continue to insist they that are physicians. That first and primary duty is not to say which disease is present, but to determine if disease, or abnormality, is present or is not. Half or more of patients in a general practice will be found to have no disease at all. The other half will have worrisome, bothersome symptoms, such as anxiousness, unhappiness or sleeplessness for which there may be an emotional or situational basis, but not a disease.

But here we have ADHD and tricyclic antidepressants with which to treat it, desipramine most particularly. Here we have therapy which has caused five sudden deaths in children, and the legal requirement to give the patient/parents all pertinent information (disclosure) that they require with which to make an informed consent.

First we must portray the behavior of the disease/physical abnormality with no treatment at all and then we must balance this against the benefits and ill effects of the drug when used to treat this particular disease/physical abnormality. This is the risk/benefit ratio. This is informed consent. Every time you go to a physician or take your children to a physician you are owed such an explanation of your condition and treatment, nothing less.

On the one hand, you have ADHD, never proven to be a disease. See ADHD page C7

Condell offers free community assistance resources

"My mom is in Florida and needs chemotherapy. Can I bring her her for treatment?" "Is there a difference between senior housing and a retirement home?"

People have many questions similar to these and so many more according to Mary Galo, RN, director of the Social Service/Discharge Planning department at Condell Medical Center, 801 S. Milwaukee Ave., Libertyville.

To help answer these questions, Condell's Social Service/Discharge Planning department announces the CAREline—Community Assistance Resource Extension.

This free new community program will begin Wednesday, Sept. 18.

Galo said, "The program has been designed to provide information and assist community residents with a wide range of problems from general insurance and disability questions to the options that may be available in becoming a caregiver for an elderly parent."

To access the CAREline, call 362-2905, ext. 5459.

ADHD

ease at all, a behavior disorder, and on the other hand, to treat it with, and hopefully, make it better, you have desipramine and the other tricyclic antidepressants known to have caused the sudden death of five children with "behavioral" disorders. It is "no contest."

If you were told these facts about ADHD, desipramine and other antidepressants, would you allow such a prescription for your child? How many of the tens to hundreds of thousands of parents of children said to have ADHD, on these very drugs, have had full such disclosure.

The mother of fatality number six, a 14-year-old son, known to me, did not. Moreover, there have been four deaths associated with the combination of methylphenidate (Ritalin) and clonidine (Catapres) and three with pemoline (Cylert), all for ADHD—not a disease or anything biologic or organic. Untreated, ADHD could not possibly cause death.

ADHD is said to be the cause of alcohol abuse in 25 percent of adults, with adult ADHD and of drug abuse otherwise in 40 percent.

Given that ADHD has never been proven to be a disease, might it be that being treated lifelong as though one has a brain disease, including the mandatory use of addictive psychostimulants, is the cause of this alcohol and drug abuse? Might it be the cause of all that goes wrong in the life of those with ADHD?

To learn more about the invented diseases of psychiatry, ADHD, Ritalin, your rights and your child's rights, contact Dr. Baughman through 1(800)869-2247.

Editor's note: Dr. Fred A. Baughman, Jr., MD, has been a neurologist and pediatric neurologist for 35 years, board certified in both. He has discovered and described real diseases. He is a Fellow of the American Academy of Neurology and is a medical advisor to the Citizens Commission on Human Rights, International.

New school year can trigger asthma

A new study indicates that parents of children with asthma must pay particular attention to signs of worsening asthma at this time of year. The American Lung Assn. of Illinois offers some back-to-school strategies to help make this a more healthy time of the year for children with asthma.

The new study, published in the September issue of the American Journal of Respiratory and Critical Care Medicine, states that children with asthma are more likely to develop upper respiratory infections at the start of a new school term than at any other time. Upper respiratory infections such as the common cold can trigger asthma and lead to missed school days and hospitalizations. The highest rates of hospitalization for asthma occurred during the last two weeks of November and the first two weeks of December.

Asthma accounts for 10 million lost school days per year and is the third-ranking cause of hospitalization among children under the age of 15. More than 218,666 children under the age of 18 in Illinois suffer from asthma.

"We are not recommending that parents of children with asthma isolate their kids during cold and flu season," said Dr. Manjeshwar Prabhu, pulmonologist and physician spokesman for the American Lung Assn. of Illinois. "But what we do stress is that parents take sensible measure to prevent their children from exposure to viruses that could aggravate their asthma."

The American Lung Assn. of Illinois recommends the following strategies for parents of children with asthma.

- Make sure your child gets his or her flu shots. Children with asthma should receive yearly flu vaccinations from the age of 6 months on. And, children under the age of 9 who have not been previously vaccinated require two doses instead of one. The best time to receive influenza vaccinations is between Oct. 1 and Nov. 15.

- Outside of the classroom, minimize exposure with children that have colds. It is also crucial not to make a child with asthma feel like a "sick kid." Children with asthma need to feel that they are capable of leading normal lives.

- Make a list of all the medications your child takes. Indicate dosages and time of administration as well as instruction to notify you when the medication needs to be refilled.

- Be sure your child's teachers, school nurse, administrators and physical education instructors are aware of your child's asthma. Know what to do in case of an attack.

- Give the school a copy of any history or risk your child may have for anaphylaxis from insect stings or other allergies and have an anaphylaxis kit with the nurse or your child's teacher.

HealthReach helps meet community needs

Thousands of Lake County residents live their daily lives without benefit of health insurance or routine access to a family physician.

Yet, like the rest of us, they suffer from every day diseases like strep throat, diabetes, heart disease, high blood pressure, respiratory infections, etc.

In 1992, a growing need for access to routine healthcare among the medically underserved of Lake County was identified.

The community pulled together and opened a general medical clinic to serve those in need. The HealthReach Clinic, as it is called, began caring for the sick on May 2, 1992.

Located at 201 Liberty St., Waukegan, the clinic and its volunteer physicians and staff cared for over 3,000 people last year alone.

Most of the patients treated at HealthReach live below federal poverty guidelines (extremely low income).

HealthReach originated as and continues to be a true community project. Doctors, nurses and clerical personnel donate their time and skills to care for patients.

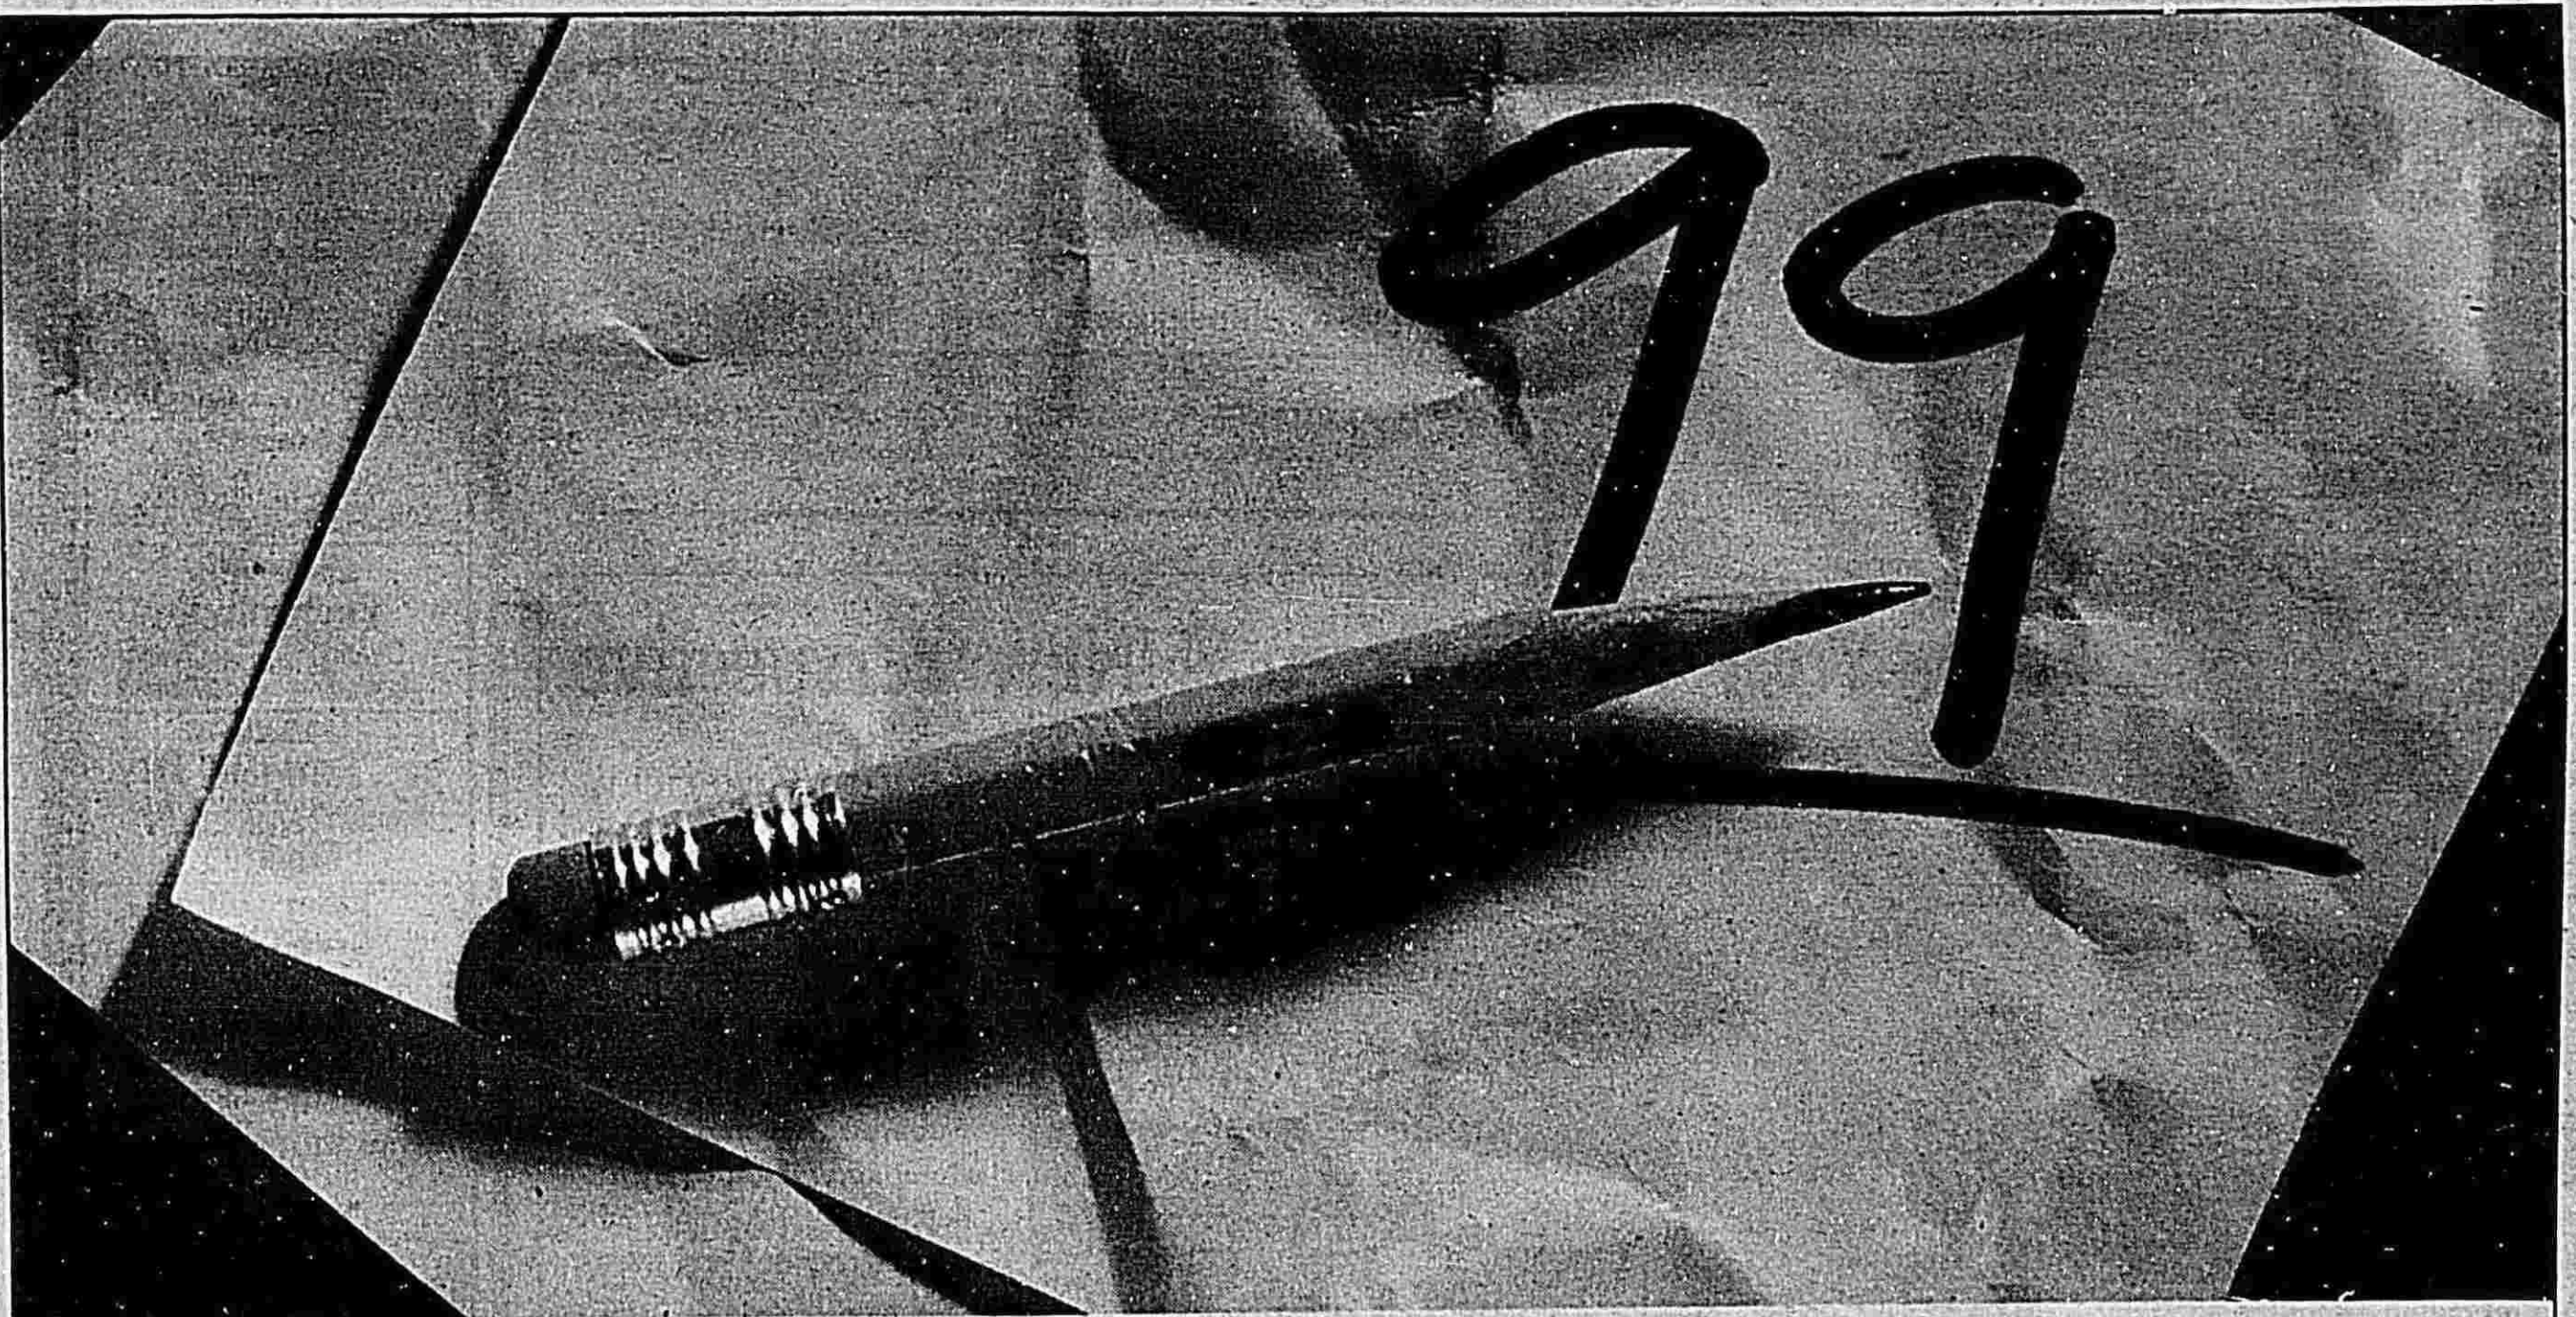

Local hospitals work with clinic staff to provide testing and services patients require. Pharmaceutical companies donate medicines. Area pharmacies fill prescriptions at no cost to clinic users. And area residents support fundraisers, like the Victory Hospital Foundations' Chef Cuisine, to supplement the clinic's annual budget which is funded in part by federal block grants.

HealthReach Clinic treats patients approximately 25 hours each week.

Office hours are held on Monday, Wednesday, and Saturday.

For information and appointments, call 360-8800.

Empower police

Congratulations to Waukegan for refusing to buckle in to the liberal Democrats' demand that they change their zoning regulations to illegal immigrants can stack up more and more in homes throughout the area. We have too many illegal immigrants in Lake County who are living with other families; two and three families to a home. It's time we give local police departments the power to check and enforce immigration laws and deport illegal aliens.

Don't need logo

The spending of $100,000 of taxpayers money for a logo for Lake County is absolutely ridiculous spending and should give good reason why we need to impeach the members of the board who were involved in this transaction. Why do we need a corporate logo? It's only used on official seals and documents and has an eagle or a symbol of the state as part of the logo. We certainly don't need a corporate logo on Lake County material any more than we need it painted on the side of our vehicles. It's time board members come into reality and quit spending taxpayers money like it was their own.

Safety at risk

I want to congratulate the school board for voting to hire more teachers. They're finally listening to the citizens and we've been waiting for this for a long time. Did you know that they discontinued busing service for kids attending Woodview and Lakeview, first through third grade? They expect them to walk over a mile and a half, over multiple hazards, including a railroad track with a new Metra line? Does anyone care about the safety of these children? If you're concerned, please contact your state officials and let them know.

Duck answers

This is to the lady in Gurnee who called about the six baby ducks on Aug. 14th. I apologize, I misplaced your pager number and address. You may have discovered that the ducks have a better chance of survival in a group and are left alone. A single baby duck is another story. Do not feed near the area where they spend the night, as it will draw other animals in. They should be fairly safe if they can get to water.

Thanks for cleaning
My hat is off to the crew of volunteers that cleaned up the entrance to the Sweetwater Mill subdivision. Thanks for a job well done!

Got a problem?

What's going on at the Grayslake Park District? Every time I go to register my child for a program, there are new faces in the office. Is there a problem in that office that residents should be aware of?

Get licensed

I've noticed in Country Walk subdivision that there's quite a few stay-at-home moms who watch other children in their homes. Some of these women have up to six kids, including their own, in their home full time. Let's hope these daycare providers are licensed by the state. To have over three kids in your home, your own included, you must be checked and licensed. You'd better look into it before you get a knock on your door because someone reported you.

Hide garbage

I live in Round Lake Beach in a new subdivision and was wondering why homeowners feel the need to store their garbage each week at the side of their houses for neighbors, passing cars, and bikers to look at. It's too bad people use their garages for everything but their cars and garbage cans.

Sincere thanks

I wish to thank the four young gentlemen who helped me with my car at Route 83 and Old Rollins Rd. They helped me get my stuck car onto the road. I offered to pay them and they refused, saying a thank you is enough. Bless you!

Open your eyes

I think the high schools should start requesting or having mandatory drug testing for athletes. Also, I think Grayslake coaches should open their eyes to their athletes and start enforcing their procedures regarding drugs and alcohol.

Disappointed

I'm very disappointed in the new trustees in the village of Lake Zurich. Voters put new people in this last election saying they didn't want any more development, yet it couldn't be going faster. It's going too quickly. They weren't listening.

Jack of all trades

I want to wish Officer Larkin, previously of the Wauconda Police Department, good luck in his retirement. You're truly a wonderful person and a hard working man who gives everything he has. You taught me right from wrong, and if you have pride in your work and respect in others, you'll go far in life. Thanks for being a superb officer, wonderful person, and the best father. I love you, dad, thanks for everything!

What's the future?

The folks at the counters at the Round Lake Post Office do an excellent job. They're courteous and very efficient. What kind of facility and how many more employees will we need when we're overrun with more development?

No, no, no

No, we don't want the speed limit at Rainier Woods reduced. No, we don't want the traffic signal at Menard's. No, we don't want to pay for what builders should have paid for. No, we won't vote for the likes of Mayor Hamsher, who signed off in allowing building on existing dangerous roadways.

Get smart

A vote for Clinton or a vote for dull Dole, gets you a dead man walking and a dead man talking. Haven't you ever heard of a bird in the hand is better than two in the bush? Better to vote for what you know you have than for what you don't know you'll get. Less taxes means more debt, higher interest rates. Get smart and read the papers!

Officer friendly

I would like to thank Officer Davenport of the Antioch Police for helping two stranded Chicago ladies find lodging. It was most appreciated. Thank you!

When pigs fly

Vote for Dole? When pigs fly! Dole's an idiot. As for Clinton being a womanizer, it's never been proven. Even if he is, he See LIPSERVICE page C9

On your own

This is to the mayor of Round Lake Beach. Why are you politticking on village time instead of doing village business? Why do I know this? Because you came to my house!

Supervise kids

I've noticed a lot of jet skis on the lake this year and quite a bit of reckless driving. Most startling is that there's apparently children out there who seem to be below legal age of being out there on jet skis by themselves. I think their parents should think about this and provide supervision. A hazard like this could be fatal.

Promises, promises

I hope nobody out there is buying this load of crapola from Bill Clinton. All through his campaign in 1992, he promised a middle income tax cut. As soon as he was elected, he raised our taxes by the highest rate ever in history. All these great ideas he's got, why didn't he do them during the last four years? I hope nobody votes for him again!

Look it up

Could someone please give Bill Clinton a dictionary? Paid volunteers who cost taxpayers money are called employees. People who are supposed to get third grade kids to read are called teachers. Kids who clog our schools who need expensive special classes whose parents don't pay for them are called children of illegal aliens. People who want to pay for all these new Bill Clinton expensive programs are called idiots. People who have to pay but don't want to and can't afford to are called middle class.

Keep clippings

I just love the new neighbors in Lexington Homes subdivision across Shorewood Rd. on Route 83, how they cut their grass and take their grass clippings in wheelbarrows and dump them across the road. How neighborly of you! Keep your grass clippings on your side of the road!

Read paper

To the arrested person who doesn't feel that the police officers who get in trouble are never listed in the paper, maybe you should read the Aug. 30 edition (front page) of the Fox Lake Press.

Never sorry

I've lived in Lake County just a few years, having moved here from Chicago. One thing I know about the Republican party, they never have to say they're sorry for all the corruption that goes on every day of the year throughout the county, in all levels of government. It will continue as long as Republicans are in control of everything.

Prediction

I'd just like to state that I believe that President Bill Clinton and Vice President Al Gore will win by a landslide in November and that Lake County will go democrat for the first time in its history.

It's Bill again

For those people that want to vote for president, they'd better wake up and smell the coffee, because Bill Clinton will be president again.

Hero shmeero

Dole doesn't deserve to be president. As for being a war hero, what does that have to do with anything? There's plenty of war heroes that could run, but don't have anything in common with the people and don't know how to govern. All Bob Dole cares about is who's got the money and who will give it to him.

Sucking it all

As a resident on Lake Catherine, I agree with Judy Martini that the dredging is a short-term situation, not a solution. In response to Mr. Lenowitz, he's correct, along with Dr. Dam, when they say that most of the dredging work will be in Antioch Township. But is that going to be after he gets done doing all of the dredging north of Burton's Bridge for some political ally? They've been there for five-and-a-half months sucking money out of our pockets.

Dug up the dirt

This is in regard to the Lipservice comment of Aug. 23 entitled "No contest." If this person wants to know what Bill Clinton has done dirty and disgusting, I can think of two things: 1. Paula Jones; 2. Whitewater; 3. He has not kept all his promises. If you think he has, you haven't been reading up on what he's doing.

Coming of age?

Lindenhurst growth—isn't growth wonderful? Thanks to our village and county leaders, Lindenhurst residents can now fall asleep and be awakened by the loud, steady drone of traffic on Grass Lake Rd. So much for the sounds of nature. But our mayor says the community is coming of age. He's right, the age of noise, pollution, traffic, and lots of people everywhere.

Bill's no saint

I'm calling in regard to "No contest" in the Aug. 23 Lipservice. Clinton and his boys raped the banks in Arkansas to the tune of $65 million. How about Ron Brown, Clinton's buddy? He was about to be indicted when his plane went down. There's many things that can be said about Clinton.

Three cheers

I think the people of America will turn to integrity and character when the election comes up in November. Three cheers for Bob Dole!

Where's bike?

I'd like to ask the police of Round Lake Beach, what happened to their promise of having a police officer on a bicycle to help keep the crime down? After our association purchased them a bicycle, we have never seen nor heard from them since.

Get to it

We live on Lawrence Ave. in Fox Lake. We have about a 10-inch deep, 3-foot wide, 6-foot long area where the pavement is gone. This 10-inch deep hole is getting worse and worse. I called the village and was told by streets and sanitation that they would be out to look. The second time I called, they said that as soon as the cement plant was operating to the public is when my street will be fixed. I was wondering if anyone else is having a problem. At the top of Fourth St., they managed to repave the street, so where did that cement come from? Do I have to wait until election time to get some action?

Give us closure

To Mayor Hamsher, before you surprise everyone and tell us you're going to run again for election next spring, why don't you clean up some of the things you've left undone these last four years? The abandoned hot dog pontoon boat along Nippersink has laid all summer long broken like a pile of junk, yet you've done nothing. Do something at least to finish your term.

Out of the dark

The Wauconda police chief, after he's done such dirty deeds and gotten away with it, is just upset he got caught. It's time the good old boys know that a new day is here and that Wauconda and Island Lake are coming out of the dark ages. The chief had a contract with the people, not anyone else. He could have seriously hurt somebody. Now they're having a closed door session and the people don't even get to hear what he's got to say.

I'll take two

To the mayor of Gurnee, I live in Lake County and work in Gurnee. As a paramedic, I don't mind you getting tickets from Great America. I'll stop by your office and pick up a couple.

Thanks

I'd like to congratulate and thank Pat Anderson of the Avon Township Highway Dept. and Martin Buehler of Lake County Highway Dept., for the construction of turn lanes at Linden Ave. and Washington St. in unincorporated Avon Township.

Is it true?

I was calling because a neighbor told me that Jones Cable was considering selling out to TCI. I was calling to see if your readers knew if this rumor was true, because we had TCI before and they gave horrible service.

Faith restored

To the person who found a brown purse in Piggly Wiggly's parking lot in Antioch, thank you! You've put my faith back in Americans.

Griefnotes

You can help in a number of special ways. Through reaching out and offering support in the form of listening and presence you will help a great deal. Ask your friend how they are doing. Mention the deceased by name and allow the bereaved to continue discussion about the deceased if they wish. Many bereaved report feeling isolated. You can help by including them in your social groups. Contact with the grieving

Employees feeling more secure about jobs according to SHRM survey

The layoff tide may be turning and employees are beginning to feel somewhat more secure about their jobs, according to a new Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM) study, 1996 Job Security and Layoffs Survey. The survey is part of the SHRM 1996 Issues Management Survey Series.

Based on the responses of nearly 500 human resource professionals, only 28 percent said they anticipate layoffs in the next two years, a substantial decrease from the number of respondents (53 percent) reporting layoffs since Jan. 1, 1994.

Professionals were the most likely group to be affected by layoffs, according to 36 percent of the survey respondents. Office and clerical positions made up another 33 percent of the jobs affected by layoffs. As a result, 63 percent of respondents from business and professional service organizations reported layoffs in recent years, compared to 32 percent from all other industries.

Once displaced, employees were most often provided with severance pay (53 percent), priority consideration for reassignment to another job within the organization (38 percent), extended health care benefits (35 percent) and job placement assistance through an outside organization (32 percent).

The primary reason for layoffs varied, but respondents most commonly cited reorganization and restructuring (66 percent), poor economic conditions (23 percent) and profit decline (22 percent) as the most common layoff factors.

Not surprisingly, the layoff slowdown has employees feeling more secure about their jobs. Sixty-five percent of the respondents said employees were either very secure, secure or somewhat secure in their jobs, compared to 30 percent who said employees were either very insecure, insecure or somewhat insecure.

The survey also shows a substantial link between job security and an organization's layoff plans and history. Organizations without layoffs since 1994 (86 percent) were nearly twice as likely to describe employees as very secure, secure or somewhat secure. Of respondents who said their companies as planning layoffs in the next two years, 61 percent described employees very insecure, insecure or somewhat insecure, compared to 9 percent of respondents who do not foresee layoffs.

While downsizing may lead to greater short-term profits for some companies, layoffs do not come without a price, according to the survey results. For example, downsizing initiatives are very likely to lead to low employee morale and increased resignations. Based on survey responses, only 35 percent said that layoffs increased profits. However, 62 percent said layoffs decreased employee morale and 39 percent said layoffs increased the number of employee resignations.

Human resource professionals were generally secure about their own positions. Less than one in five human resource professionals expressed concern about their own job security, but members of the professional did cite a number of potential threats.

Internet literacy is key in careers

If you don't have a computer with a modem, get one now. And hurry. A just-released survey reveals that 61 percent of executives believe that a strong understanding of how to use the Internet would make them more marketable in their fields. Moreover, 76 percent said that cyberspace know-how will advance their careers five years from now.

The survey was developed by Robert Half International Inc., the world's first and largest staffing service specializing in accounting, finance and information technology.

It was conducted by an independent research firms, which polled 150 executives from the nation's 1,000-largest companies.

Executives were asked: "Would a strong understanding of how those in your field use the Internet make you more marketable in your career today?"

- Much more marketable—11 percent
- Somewhat more marketable—50 percent

- No effect—32 percent
- Somewhat less marketable—4 percent

- Much less marketable—1 percent
- Not sure—2 percent

They also were asked: "How important do you think a strong understanding of the Internet will be in your career advancement five years from now?"

- Very important—27 percent
- Somewhat important—49 percent
- About the same—14 percent
- Somewhat unimportant—5 percent
- Very unimportant—2 percent
- Not sure—3 percent

"Employees and job seekers must become literate on the Internet to keep pace with businesses that are turning to the Web as a new way of doing business," said Max Messmer, chairman and CEO of Robert Half International.

"People who adopt Internet skills are more likely to advance in their fields as companies increasingly rely on the 'Net' to reach both internal and external audiences.

Attitude important at Ace

"We're always looking for employees with a good attitude, people who like to deal with people," says Rich Hill, Human Resources manager for six Ace Hardware stores, owned and operated locally. These stores include the Ace Hardware Home Center in Round Lake and the Ace Hardwares in Round Lake Beach, Gurnee, Lakehurst, Libertyville and Mundelein.

"We can train people in the knowledge of the products and our procedures, but they must have the right attitude to start with," adds Hill.

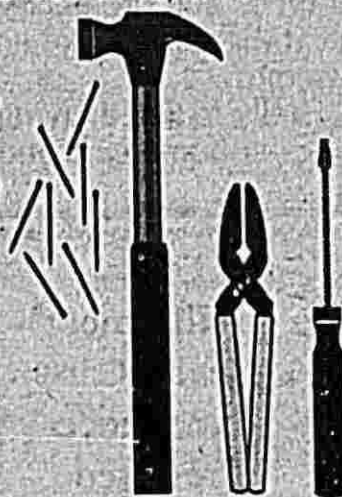

Punctuality and good attendance is also important.

Ace has full and part time positions with the entry level as sales clerks and cashiers, who also stock the shelves and have sundry other jobs. Two hundred and fifty people are employed at these six Ace Hardwares.

Ace promotes from within with store manager the ultimate goal. Hill himself started working for Ace part time while he was in high school.

Many people just walk in and fill out applications, referrals from the present staff and classified newspaper ads are a few of the ways that Ace looks for new employees. Ace offers full time employees health and life insurance, a 401K profit sharing plan, paid vacations and holiday pay, as well as a discount on store merchandise.

Part time employees also get a store discount. For more information, call 546-4668.

Team player skills key to advancement

A recent survey of company executives shows that poor team player skills are most likely to affect a person's chance of getting ahead in the office outranking such negatives as excessive complaining and complacency.

The survey was conducted by an independent research firm that polled 150 executives from the nation's 1,000 largest companies.

Executives were asked, "Assuming an employee's work is adequate, which of the following most hurts the employee's chances for success at a company?"

Fifty seven percent of respondents said poor team player skills, while 21 percent indicated complacency; 14 percent said excessive complaining; 6 percent said defensiveness; and 2 percent were undecided.

"The office of the '90's of necessity, has become less hierarchical-increasingly, managers are relying more on collaborative efforts than on chains-of-command," according to Max Messmer, chairman of Accountemps.

"Consequently, greater emphasis is being placed on teamwork and a sense of community at work.

Messmer advised those looking to get ahead that indifference about their jobs or frequent complaining can hurt their chances for advancement.

"Employers are most likely to promote people who can work well in a group and who bring a spirit of enthusiasm to their work environment," Messmer said.

Marriott always looking for good employees

The Marriott Corp. is always looking for more good employees, since they are constantly filling one position or another.

Marriott has a myriad of positions to fill from front office administrators to kitchen help, desk clerks to banquet managers, banquet salesmen and set-up persons, cooks, maintenance workers, bell boys, PBX switch loaders, bartenders and waitpersons, office personnel and department managers.

Marriott is a place where one can build a career in hotel-restaurant management since 90 percent of Marriott's management staff is promoted from within.

Locally, besides the Lincolnshire Resort, the Marriott Corp. operates the Marriott Courtyard in Waukegan, the Fairfield Inn in Gurnee, the Marriott Courtyard in Highland Park, and the Marriott Courtyard in Deerfield and the Deerfield Suites.

How to answer ads more effectively

To help cut through the resume clutter follow these tips:

- P.O. Box numbers can be an obstacle because you cannot address your cover letter to a specific person. In many cases, however, you can identify the company and subsequently the person to whom you can address your letter by calling the post office that represents the zip code in the address. Often the post office will tell you the company. This won't work, however, if the company rented its box through the newspaper in which it advertised.

- If the first sentence in your cover letter says, "this letter is in response to your ad," you will sound just like the other 150 to 400 applicants. Try a different approach. Go to the library and get an annual report or trade and magazine article about the company. Then write a beginning paragraph that addresses how your qualifications can help a company increase their profits, market share or save them money.

- Edit, proof and edit again. Keep sentences in your cover letter short and crisp. Letters and resumes must be grammatically perfect. It just takes one typo and a millisecond to send your credentials flying into the proverbially circular files. Therefore, do not try to write your materials in one night or in one sitting. Finally, don't mention salary, bonus or prerequisites.

The key to obtaining a better response from employment ads is targeting your cover letter and resume to particular employers and the positions you seek.

Lake County job market tightens

Staff cutbacks are expected to overtake gains this fall in the Lake County area. That finding is based on the Employment Outlook Survey, issued by Manpower Inc. for October, November and December.

"Among local companies responding to our fourth quarter hiring survey," Charles Bartels of Manpower said, "21 percent say they will increase their workforce this fall, 25 percent are preparing to reduce personnel and 44 percent indicate their employment will remain stable. The remaining 10 percent haven't yet decided."

Bartels said that year-end staffing can be a mix of seasonal factors, with retail gearing up for the holidays, but other industries slowing down. "The outlook here was more positive three months ago, when 20 percent planned to raise their payrolls and 10 percent intended to reduce them. Last year at this time, 13 percent predicted adding to their workforce while 13 percent foresaw fewer workers."

Hiring prospects appear most promising this fall in non-durable goods manufacturing and education. Staff cutbacks are projected in construction, transportation/public utilities, wholesale/retail trade and services. Mixed intentions are reported in durable goods manufacturing.

As 1996 comes to a close, the job outlook is seasonally bright as 25 percent say they will increase employment, 9 percent plan decreases, 62 expect no change and 4 percent are not yet certain.

An age-old dilemma: Resumes one page or two?

One page or two? It's an age-old dilemma that job seekers grapple with when preparing their resumes.

A recent survey provides some insight: Sixty-four percent of executives polled said they prefer a two-page resume from candidates for executive positions, while 73 percent said staff-level applicants should stick with one page.

The survey was developed by Accountemps, the world's largest temporary staffing service for accounting, finance and bookkeeping.

It was conducted by an independent research firm, which polled 150 executives from the nation's 1,000 largest companies.

Executives were asked, "What is the preferable length of a resume for executives?" Their response:

- One page—28 percent
- Two pages—64 percent
- Three pages or more—7 percent
- Don't know/not sure—1 percent

They were also asked, "What is the preferable length of a resume for staff-level employees?" Their response:

- One page—73 percent
- Two pages—25 percent
- Three pages or more—1 percent
- Don't know/not sure—1 percent

Max Messmer, chairman of Accountemps and author of the "Job Hunting for Dummies" from IDG Books, said, "A candidate's depth of experience should dictate resume length, but within reason. Two pages is generally the maximum even for executive-level job seekers.

"Overextending your resume length merely as a substitute for work experience may detract from your accomplishments and skills," Messmer cautioned.

He offered some tips on keeping resumes concise and effective:

- Use bulleted statements where possible because they're easier to read than sentences embedded in paragraphs;

- Leave out fluff and other information not directly related to the job you're seeking;

- Don't include information that relates to your personal life. Besides being inappropriate, it adds clutter to your resume.

"Your resume is a marketing tool—brevity, directness and clarity will get the best results and enhance your prospects for an interview," said Fred Getz, Accountemps president for the Chicago area.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search,

Two weeks ago I went for an interview for a position as a Jr. accountant and told the interviewer that I was still employed with a company I have been there for over five years. The interview went very well and within 48 hours, I was called back for a second interview. At the time of the second interview, I was asked to supply references for them to check. I did, however, ask them not to check my current employer as I was still employed and did not want to jeopardize my current position. I supplied the company with two other references from former co-workers since all former employers were no longer in business. The next day I received a call from this company telling me that I was not only not being considered for the position, but that they found out that I haven't been employed with who I said I am for over two years. What gave them the right to check on something I asked them not to? I was clearly qualified for that job and now I not only got burned...but I'm also steamed!

G.K.—Antioch
Dear G.K.,

First allow me to inform you that chances are very possible that the potential employer did not contact the (supposed) current employer just as you requested. There are several ways to verify employment. Do not discount the fact that perhaps one of your former co-workers accidentally giving them the benefit of the doubt told them something you didn't expect. In any case, the problem here is not what everyone else has done to you, but rather what you have created for yourself. Not only did you lie about your current situation, but you have asked others to lie for you. Regardless of how they found out, the fact is they did and that's that. The main question you need to deal with is "where have you been for the past two years?" Whether you have been working temporary assignments just to make ends meet, staying home to care for a sick parent, or have gone back to school, whatever the case may be...BE HONEST!

NOTE: When signing the back of an application form, one of the paragraphs you are verifying is that, to the best of your knowledge, all information on the application is true and complete. Employers are willing to oversee a lot of things, lying is not usually one of them!

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel In Gurnee. Letters can be sent to Nancy Sakol c/o Lakeland Newspapers, P.O. Box 268, Grayslake, IL 60030

AREA CODE FOR OUR AREA IS (847)

"Sylvia"

This is a beautiful, feminine little girl, just a year old! She's a muted cream and white in color with some cafe au lait highlights and ice blue eyes. Her personality is anything but icy though, she's an affectionate little creature who loves attention and will be a perfect companion to a lucky person.

"Sushi"

Sushi is a Siamese mix. The mix was very fortunate and she is extremely pretty with some unusual markings. She came to us a brand new mom with a tiny family. She has a lovely gentle personality and is ready for a new start and a new home.

"Janice"

Janice is the personality kid. She has a little tilt to her head and a slight balance problem which give her a constantly quizzical expression. She absolutely adores people, loves riding a shoulder or being carried about and is a rather small cat...she'll always look like a bit of a kitten.

The Assisi Animal Foundation supports McHenry County's only no-kill facility devoted completely to sheltering homeless dogs and cats. The A.A.F. provides other community services as well including educational programs for youngsters, classroom materials to teachers on humane education, and "Pets for Patient Progress", a program that visits area nursing and convalescent homes.

The A.A.F. welcomes volunteers and is the proud recipient two years running of the Chicago Veterinary Medical Associations' two top awards. The organization has also just received recognition for its work from the American Veterinary Medical Assn. as well.

NORTHVIEW 2

An unfinished attic over the garage offers room for expansion in the compact, two story Northview 2.

It's high-peaked roof and lofty chimney, along with the oval window in the front door, lend a nostalgic Victorian air to the home.

The rest of the Northview 2 is by no means old fashioned. The family living spaces downstairs are comfortably informal.

The large country kitchen has a built-in dishwasher and centers around a work island, eating bar, and counter, and cupboard space is plentiful. Washer and dryer are but a few steps away in the utility room.

A fireplace adds charm and warmth to the richly windowed living and dining area. Some families might prefer to use this area as one large family room with an informal eating nook, rather than a formal dining area next to the kitchen.

The den offers an in-home office that can substitute for a formal dining area. The half-bath is convenient for visitors.

All of the bedrooms are upstairs. The master suite with its private deck, walk-in closet, spa and tub/shower area, offers home owners a luxurious getaway within the home.

The other two bedrooms share a bathroom that also includes a compartmentalized vanity and linen storage. Windows in the front bedroom are capped by a contemporary half-round, giving this front a dash of class all its own.

For a study kit of the Northview 2 (405-50), sent $10, to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307-LP60, Eugene, OR 97402 (be sure to specify plan name and number). For a collection of plan books featuring our most popular home plans, send $20 to Landmark, or call 1-800-562-1151.

Ask DON GARLITS

Engines running backwards not so strange

Q. Have you ever heard of an engine running backwards when you first turn the ignition key to the on position? My 1977 Ford F-150 with a 300 cubic inch engine does just that, I think. We went through four new starters before my local garage noticed that the engine was going backwards, the starter motor gears would be stripped. What could cause this to happen and how can it be corrected? We are still driving the truck, but now we have to remember to wait several seconds after turning the key to on before turning to engage the starter.—Bill L.

A. The phenomenon you are experiencing reminds me of the days when I was a young man, tooling around with those Model T Fords. We could set the engine in a particular position, just a little over top dead center (TDC), turn the ignition and most times the engine would fire right up! We thought this was rather cute, because usually it was done to impress one of our friends. Since most T's didn't have electric starters, our friends would wonder how the engine could start just by turning on the ignition.

Your situation, with the engine "running backwards," is a similar phenomenon. If your engine stopped just a little past TDC, it too would start, instead of running backwards, when you turned the ignition to on. But you see, Bill, most engines don't stop just a little past TDC, they usually stop a little before. So when the spark plug fires, the engine momentarily runs backwards, though it's not supposed to. In the old distributor system—points, condenser and coil—no spark would occur unless the engine was rotating. The engine had to turn to cause the points to operate, which in turn sent the spark to the plugs.

Today, with electronic ignitions, there are instances where you will actually set a spark by merely turning the ignition key to on. This spark will always occur before TDC. This is probably why your engine turns backwards when you turn the key. I am sure the manufacturers are aware of this situation and have provided some sort of circuitry to prevent this from happening. I would suggest you take the truck to an automotive electric specialist and have them look into it.
